Somerset County Fair Celebrates 100 Years

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — During August 19-26 when the centennial Somerset County Fair was held in Meyersdale, nothing could have been more evident than this fair retains a strong loyalty to the many aspects of agriculture.

Running the gamut from great-grandparents to newborn infants and any age between, members of the same family support the annual festivities. After 100 years, the fair is still a vibrant link, simultaneously, connecting four and five generations.

Since agriculture is smack dab in the middle of their lives as it has been for decades, celebrating the fair was right. The high quality of animals that show judges often comment about is consistent here. They are impressed by the dedication and hard work done by 4-H and FFA members, their parents, and leaders.

Byron Glessner, president of the fair board of directors, since 1989 says the Junior Livestock Sale tells the story when the price paid per pound is averaged out. He said the 1999 sale was the biggest ever and surpassed the $200,000 mark. The 2000 sale was higher than $170,000.

Another director commented Somerset County Fair is like a "family get-together." On Thursday, Aug. 24, the Decker Barn was a beehive of activity with square dancing, music, games, and memorabilia never heard of by computer-literate youths. Nevertheless, the kids tackled games of skill their senior counterparts used to play.

"You can't buy wooden pickup sticks anymore. They are all plastic today," said a disappointed Lynn Shaffer, a director who coordinated the games. She found Jacks, however, a skill game once loved by young girls. Shaffer also brought jump ropes, hula hoops, and displayed innumerable photographs from past fairs.

Eva Compton, Salisbury, looks to be at least 75 or 80, but instead she turned 100 earlier

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) - The Pennsylvania State University is a world-renowned research University. One indicator of research excellence is expenditures for research. Based on fiscal year 1998 data, Penn State ranked 13th among all private and public universities in the United States for funds spent for research. The University spent approximately $393,000,000 on research during 1999, of this $66,000,000 was spent in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

You may ask what all of this money is spent on and where does it come from? The diversity of research activities within the University is remarkable. A sampling of research being con-

Tobacco Grower Survey Will Arrive By Mail

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — In order for the Pennsylvania Tobacco Marketing Association (PTMA) to do its job, a survey will be mailed soon to all members — in fact, all tobacco growers, according to Dennis Hess of the association.

The survey, which should soon be arriving in growers' mailboxes, will not only ask questions of what tobacco is being grown and how much, but will provide a way for the association to address marketing and develop directions for the association to take.

The questions are various,

What a wonderful week for fieldwork. According to the Pennsylvania Agriculture Statistical Service farmers were busy harvesting fruits, vegetables, and tobacco. In addition, they were making hay, filling silos, and getting ready for fall seeding. The condition of both corn and soybeans remained very good throughout the state. But pasture conditions declined slightly due to cool weather. Peach harvest is ending well ahead of normal and the apple harvest is also ahead of the average. Vegetable growers experienced good yields for late maturing crops and were beginning to harvest cooler weather crops. In the photo, the open country view provides a peaceful setting in Lancaster County with the camera looking south on Meeting House Road, north of White Horse. Only the clip-clop of the horse's hooves and the running carriage wheels on the roadbed break the still early afternoon quiet.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers ended the week mixed. The fancy high Choice and Prime quality steers sold mostly steady, with average Choice and plainer steers closing weak to mostly 1.00 lower. Excellent Kosher demand for the top quality cattle late in the week was responsible for the split market. The futures market jumped on Thursday and helped Western prices close steady, after minimal trading at lower levels earlier in the week. Major feedlot areas sold fat cattle from 63.00-64.00 live and 101.00-102.00 dressed. Local Holstein steers closed mostly steady to 50 lower and slaughter heifers finished steady. The boneless beef market was lower this past week, causing slaughter cows to end 1.50-2.00 lower. Slaughter bulls closed 1.00-2.00 lower. Supply included 38 percent slaughter steers, 6 percent slaughter heifers, 44 percent slaughter cows, 5 percent slaughter bulls, with the balance feeders.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Sept. 6, 2000
Report Supplied By USDA

Sharply lower grain and soybean bids today. Wheat 3 to 5 cents lower except Minneapolis was 18 cents lower. Corn 1 to 7 cents lower. Sorghum 7 to 8 cents lower. Soybeans 16 to 23 cents lower. In a reaction to recent substantial upturns grain and soybean bids turn sharply lower today. Soybeans showed the most decline but this commodity also posted the most advances. USDA crop rating were not quite as bad as many had predicted. However dry weather persist over a large segment of the country, especially soybean producing areas. Drought conditions delaying wheat seeding but still not late enough in the season to be critical. The corn crop was pretty much made before the drought became serious. Hot temperatures and drying weather has corn harvest off to a early start and combines running up into the central Cornbelt. Soybeans continue to turn from green, to yellow, to brown and many of the pods at the top of the stalk not fill out.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

SEPTEMBER 11-17, 2000

FULL HARVEST MOON, SEPTEMBER 13.

MISS AMERICA TURNS 80

Begun in 1921 as a scheme to extend the tourist season in Atlantic City, N.J., the Miss America Pageant has continued, with the display of talent and beauty regularly scheduled on the second Saturday following Labor Day. This year, the contestant for 2001 will be named, making her the 72nd Miss America. (The second Miss America, Mary Campbell, of Columbus, Ohio, was also the third, holding her title in 1922 and 1923, and there have been lapses because of major world events.) Once simply a beauty pageant, the contest is now an opportunity for scholarships, travel, and working contributions to charitable causes The current Miss America covers about 20,000 miles a month.

If truth is beauty, how come no one has their hair done in a library? –Lily Tomlin

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Make homemade croutons by cubing a day-old baguette and toasting it with olive oil and garlic.

8 cups water
4 to 6 large boiling potatoes
1 pound watercress (about 4 bunches), washed
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
salt and pepper, to taste

Boil water, then add peeled and washed potatoes, cut into small pieces. Cook for about 20 minutes, until soft. Trim the bottoms off the watercress and discard. Add watercress to potatoes in water and cook for another 10 minutes Drain and process in a blender or food processor until creamy Add butter and pulse to blend. Add salt and pepper. Just before serving, reheat just to a simmer. Serve with croutons.

OPINION

China Trade?

Like most American businesses, American farmers have fought hard this year to achieve "normal" trade relations between the U.S. and China. The notion has been accepted that granting China these favors will result in greatly expanded U.S. farm exports to China.

But Mike Coursey, a Washington D.C. lawyer, said in their rush to China, U.S. farm interests have overlooked some troubling facts. Foremost is that 800 million Chinese, about three times the entire U.S. population, are farmers and the Chinese government is committed to produce agriculture products for our market.

On the other hand, in an interview with U.S. Senator Joseph Pitts — who was on his annual farm tour in southeastern Pennsylvania this week — the senator said he did not see this as a problem if we keep the standards up to the level American farmers must meet.

"Our farmers are the best producers," Pitts said. "Of course markets will be opened up both ways. But if we keep the standards the same, our farmers will have no trouble competing. And we have the U.S. antidumping law, which prevents any country from flooding the market here."

Coursey counters with the idea that unscrupulous imports from Chian will come in labeled from some other country.

So, we have two different viewpoints on China trade. What do you think?

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Consider Vaccinating Horses For EEE

Dr. John Enck, Pennsylvania state veterinarian, is urging horse owners to consult their veterinarians about the need to vaccinate their horses against Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE).

This follows the report of the death of a horse in New Jersey from the disease and three in Virginia.

Eastern Equine Encephalitis is not to be confused with West Nile Virus (WNV). EEE, though transmitted by mosquitoes, is a virus that affects the central nervous system of horses.

The virus cannot be spread from horse to horse or horse to humans by mosquitoes. It has not been seen in Pennsylvania. Enck highly recommends that all owners of horses consult their veterinarians for vaccination protocols against this disease.

It is generally recommended that horses not vaccinated within the last six months be given a booster. Questions relating to this issue may be addressed to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Health and Diagnostic Services at (717) 772-2852.

To Look At Fall Weed Control

Fall is a good time to get ahead of hard-to-control perennial weeds such as Canada thistle and hemp dogbane, according to Jeff Stoltzfus, Eastern Lancaster County School District adult farmer instructor.

These weeds are storing up energy reserves for winter and are susceptible to winter kill if they are sprayed at this time. After corn silage harvest is an excellent time to control these weeds with Roundup or Touchdown.

If the weeds have matured and gone to seed, you will need to mow them off and wait for some regrowth before spraying. Do not plow for at least two weeks to allow the herbicide to get into the roots.

To Practice Silo Filling Safety

Silo filling is a busy and dangerous time on farms. Here are a few tips to make this busy time a safer time.

• Keep children far away from the silo and the areas wagons travel. There are many blind spots involved with maneuvering wagons to and from the silo. Drivers do not have the time to watch for children. There are no safe jobs for children under 12 to be doing during silo filling. Keep them away.

• Make sure everyone unloading the wagons is aware of the dangers of spinning PTO shafts. Silo filling is the worst time for PTO accidents because workers are often working around at least two spinning shafts. A PTO shaft spinning at 540 RPMs spins 9 times per second.

• Make sure all PTO shields are in place. Do not wear any loose or frayed clothing that can easily get caught in PTO shafts. Forage wagons also contain many gears, chains, belts and pulleys. Make sure shields covering them are in place as well.

• Make sure the PTO is disengaged before working on any equipment. In addition, make sure all moving parts have stopped. Disconnect the PTO shaft to make sure the PTO is not accidentally engaged.

• Make sure everyone is rested. Fatigue is the cause of many accidents. If you need to work long hours, have relief workers available to give other workers a break.

• Know your worker's limits. More than half of the 40 farm fatalities that occur each year in Pennsylvania involve people older than 60 or less than 14 years of age.

Young people are not experienced and have the attitude that accidents cannot happen to them. Older workers have a "done it all their lives" attitude and may not be aware that their strength, reactions, and reflexes are not what they once were.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "It is not a good harvest unless it is a safe harvest. Work smart. Think safe."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TALKING BACK TO GOD

Background Scripture:
Judges 6 through 8
Devotional Reading:
Joshua 1:1-9.

It is unthinkable, isn't it? Talking back to God!

Yet, Job talked back to God and the Lord did not punish him for doing so, did he?

Gideon is another person who did not hesitate to challenge and complain to God. Like Job, Gideon did not suffer rebuke or punishment for daring to question the veracity of the Lord. Perhaps there is something in Gideon's experience that could be helpful also to us.

The background situation in Joshua 6 through 8 is familiar: "The people of Israel did what was evil in the sight of the Lord; and the Lord gave them into the hand of Midian seven years . . . When the people of Israel cried to the Lord on account of the Midianites, the Lord sent a prophet to the people of Israel . . ." (6:1,7,8).

The prophet sent on this occasion was Gideon, a man who didn't know that he was "sent" by the Lord. In fact, when the angel of the Lord appears to him, he is beating out wheat in the wine press of his father, Joash. Told, "The Lord is with you, you mighty man of valor," Gideon does not beat around the bush in his reply: "Pray, sir, if the Lord is with us, why then has all this befallen us? And where are all his wonderful deeds which our fathers recounted to us . . . the Lord has cast us off, and given us into the hand of Midian" (6:12,13).

The Patient Lord

Ouch! That is calling God to account in very uncertain terms. But, note, the angel of God does not level Gideon with a mighty blow or consign him to the nethermost regions of Hell. Instead, God recognizes Gideon as a stalwart and courageous man with honest questions. And, turning to Gideon, the Lord says to him: "Go in this might of yours and deliver Israel from the hand of Midian; do not I send you?" (6:14).

God did not requite Gideon for his testiness; he wanted to use it for his own purposes. You are upset, Gideon? Fine, use your hostility to help my people! Do you on think that perhaps God answers us similarly when, upset about some situation in our lives or in the world about us, we complain and ask why God has not done something about it.? Gideon is not silenced by God's agreeable response to him and he replies, his tone tinged with sarcasm: "Pray, Lord, how can I deliver Israel? Behold, my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my family" (6:15).

No matter what God asks us to be or do, we can always find good reasons to disbelieve that we heard him rightly or that he really understands what he is asking.

But God Is Able!

We might assume that God had been patient long enough with this man, but the Lord's response is not condemnatory: "But I will be with you, and you shall smite the Midianites as one man."

From the beginning of human history, this has been God's response to those who claim they are not equal to the task. Gideon is quite correct: he is not able — but God is! Whenever God calls us to do something for him, it is never because by ourselves we are equipped to accomplish the task. God simply sees in us the possibility of doing it if we let the Spirit of the Lord take possession of us..

Gideon, however, is not convinced. "If now I have found favor with thee, then show me a sign that it is thou who speakest with me" (6:17). In Judges 6:19-22. God gives Gideon a pretty impressive sign. That should have ended Gideon's doubts, but later in the valley of Jezreel, Gideon demands another sign.

If God will really deliver Israel by his hand, then let the Lord make moist with dew the sheepskin that Gideon places on the threshing floor. Once again, God does not chastise this questioning man, but gives him the sign he sought.

Surely, now Gideon is ready to accept the call of God, but he says, "Let not thy anger burn against me, let me speak but this once; pray, let me make trial only this once with the fleece" and he goes on to outline yet another test of God's patience and will. God gives him the sign and at last Gideon is ready to do as God asks.

And how many times does God have to call us before we answer affirmatively?

Penn State Research Projects To Track Farm Injury Impacts

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Researchers in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health in the College of Health and Human Development are conducting two separate but related studies tracking the social and economic impacts of farm-related injuries on farm families and their communities.

"How do you find out what the loss of a farmer meant to the organizations he once belonged to, how that loss affects the farmer's community, or what financial pressures a severe injury meant to a farm operation?" said Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural engineering. "Individuals are not the only ones experiencing financial losses. The community and the state also see financial impacts. It's crucial for farmers to participate in this study so that we can gain a clearer picture of how injuries can affect an entire community."

"Farming communities rely on individuals to be involved in a number of local activities," said Lisa Davis, director of the Office of Rural Health. "The loss of key community leaders can be devastating."

The research team will interview farmers, their families and community members. Murphy and Davis believe that the combined experiences gleaned from these interviews will allow a picture to emerge that provides a larger view of farmers as contributing members of their communities. Documenting the impacts on a community provides a tool to promote changes that will help reduce farm injuries and fatalities.

Murphy said one set of mailings is going out to farm families who have been affected by farm injuries or death. The mailing list comes from Penn State's Farm Injury Statistics database, which is compiled from newspaper accounts and death certificates. The letter asks farmers who have suffered injuries that caused some level of disability, or relatives of farmers who have died in farm-related accidents, to participate in the project. If they agree, members of the research team will interview them about their life as a farmer and the ways in which they participate in the community.

"After the initial interview with a family member, we will speak with key colleagues of the farmer in the community," said Sally Maud Robertson, research assistant in agricultural engineering.

The second project centers on tracking the economic impacts of farm injuries on families and their communities, as well as the cumulative financial impact on Pennsylvania's economy. In cooperation with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the researchers will mail out a letter every four months through the fall of 2001. If any of the farm operations receiving the letters had a farm injury, they are asked to participate in a detailed interview focusing on the financial costs of a farm worker injury.

"The letter basically asks farmers if they would mind being interviewed about a farm injury," Robertson explains. "They return the mailer with their name, phone number and recommendations as to the best time to call."

Robertson said all interviews remain confidential.

"Penn State collates many farm-related safety statistics, but these studies really can help us understand how a farm injury affects people and organizations beyond the victim of the injury," Murphy said. "We hope that farm operators will work with us to help understand this issue."

The Pennsylvania Office of Rural Health is a joint effort of the College of Health and Human Development and Penn State Cooperative Extension. Its mission is to improve the health of rural communities and their residents throughout the commonwealth. The office compiles, analyzes, and disseminates information to policy makers, health providers, health educators, and health administrators. It also strengthens the existing network of rural providers, planners, and advocates by encouraging partnerships and identifying opportunities for collaboration and cooperation.

The office's mission also includes increasing interest in rural health needs, opportunities, and policy issues, and acting as a liaison between academia, state government, professional associations, and the general public.

Penn State University
September 1, 2000

Cheese Sales Strong

- 37 carloads of blocks sold
- 65 carloads of barrels sold
- Block cheese at CME over $1 33
- August federal order prices out

Trading activity at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange was very strong this week, with 37 cars of block cheese and 65 cars of barrel cheese trading hands There were no bids unfilled, but lots of outstanding offers to sell That usually means there were efforts to keep the cheese price down But, someone was willing to purchase these offers and maintain prices

Cheese prices actually strengthened this week Barrel cheese rose from $1 1925 per pound on Monday, August 28 to $1 22 by Friday, September 1 Likewise, block cheese rose from $1 30 per pound on Monday to $1.3350 per pound by Friday

USDA reports mixed market information this week regarding cheese Milk is very tight on the east coast, limiting cheese production However, there are adequate supplies of cheese on the west coast Also, cheese stocks are well ahead of year ago levels That said, U S milk production is trending seasonally lower and more milk is being diverted to fill the back to school

Incoming Feeder Cattle Management

COLUMBUS, Ohio — For any cattlemen, this can be an extremely difficult time for receiving feeder cattle. Frequently, during fall, reports circulate about outbreaks of BRSV, BVD and other related respiratory problems that may be categorized as "shipping fever" in purchased feeder cattle. It seems in many cases, the problems go back to cattle that were not vaccinated as part of a weaning, marketing or receiving program.

Vaccination

Ohio State University Extension veterinarian Bill Shulaw has said that while vaccines don't solve the problem, they do raise the level of disease resistance when administered to healthy cattle. While it's best to vaccinate before shipment, this is not always possible in the case of purchased feeder cattle.

Incoming cattle should be evaluated upon arrival and if they are in good condition, vaccination will be of benefit if administered with a minimal amount of stress on the calf. Vaccinations for BRSV, BVD, PI3 and IBR are the primary concern for calves destined for the feedlot.

Feed Intake

Of equal importance in regard to preventing health problems in feeder cattle is proper nutrition. However, a key point to keep in mind is that the best diet one can formulate will result in nutritional deficiencies if calves won't consume it! Newly arrived calves do not readily eat upon arrival in the feedlot.

In fact, OSU Extension Beef Specialist Steve Boyles says on day one in the feedlot, only 22% of the calves may eat. By day 3, approximately 40% may still not be eating and on day 10, an average of 15% of the calves may not be eating.

Factors which stimulate feed intake will increase nutrient intake and allow a quicker recovery from stress and a more immunologically competent animal. When cattle first arrive at an unfamiliar facility, they will spend considerable time walking the fence line searching for a way out.

Boyles says, if possible, feed bunks and water troughs should be located along the fence line so that as cattle circle the pen, they are forced to walk around them. This however may not be a feasible practice for some feedyards.

Nutrition

The actual starter ration should contain from 70% to 85% concentrate so as to compensate the low intake of incoming calves. If silage is to be a part of the receiving program, consider providing it at least 2 times a day to prevent deterioration in the bunk.

Nutrient content of the starter ration may also be higher to compensate for the reduced feed intake. Starter diets should contain approximately .3 ppm Selenium, 1.0% Potassium on a dry matter basis.

Protein content needs to be higher as well (16-18%).

Grass and Hay

Good quality, long stem grass or legume-grass hay that is free from mold and weeds should be placed in the feed bunk or on the apron their first few days in the pen in order to entice the calves to the bunk. Also, beginning with the first day in the lot, the receiving ration should be sprinkled on top of the grass or grass-legume hay. Boyles says to use a starter ration amounting to between .5 and .75% of the calf's body weight to begin.

Gehl Skid Loader – 25 Years of Innovation, Performance

Established in 1859, Gehl Company is known for innovation and reliability. In 1973, the company applied these same principles to the first skid loader that rolled out of its Madison, S.D. plant. Continuously improved, the Gehl SL line-up now represents the most significant advances in the history of skid loader design. In broad range of operations - construction, industrial, rental and agriculture - Gehl is the unity of choice when it comes to overall performance, efficiency and operator comfort.

Gehl's two largest skid loaders, the Models 5635 and 6635, have been improved for the year 2000. Designated as "Series-11" models, these popular job-site mainstays now deliver even better performance and smoother operation.

Standard SAE lift capacities have been increased to 1,900 and 2,350 pounds. Optional weight kits raise capacities to 2,200 and 2,650 pounds.

Higher hydraulic pressures result in better attachment performance and increased breakout force. Standard auxiliary hydraulic flow has increased 15 percent to 23 gpm while the optional high-flow auxiliary hydraulic system is up 9 percent to 36 gpm.

These improved system hydraulics mean faster cycle times, by as much as 15 percent, over previous models. A host of new convenience and serviceability features have also been incorporated into the "Series II" skid loader units.

Additionally, the Gehl Model 4635SX is now available with a turbo-charged diesel option. Identified as a 4635 SXT, this new configuration boasts 57-hp with a 1,425 pound SAE operating capacity. Counterweights increase that capacity to 1,575 pounds.

Reliable Gehl skid loaders have been proving their worth on farms and ranches for over 25 years. Today, Gehl builds six models, ranging from 28- to 80-hp with SAE operating capacities from 950 to 2,650 lbs. All units are available with Gehl's precise, easy-to-use "hands only" control system. The four largest "35 Series" models can also be equipped with hand/foot or dual-hand controls.

All Gehl skid loaders feature a padded operator restraint bar for added safety and operating comfort. Plus an easy roll-back cab delivers unmatched access to the drive and hydraulic components.

Gehl "35-Series" loaders offer a spacious, comfortable cab with unequalled side visibility. A large rear window and low-profile engine cover improve rear sight lines.

Plus, a grid section in the roof delivers additional bucket visibility at full lift height while the "cab forward" design offers a better look at the bucket's cutting edge. These units are equipped with powerful, low-maintenance, fuel-efficient oil-cooled Deutz diesel engines.

Gehl's All-Tach™ universal quick-attach system is compatible with most competitive attachments. It makes changing attachments a breeze.

With a huge assortment of attachments available, there's one to handle virtually any job. And with Gehl's high-flow hydraulic system (available on DX models), there's even more muscle to power high-performance and heavy-duty attachments.

NEED HIGH QUALITY FORAGE?
Use GREEN SPIRIT RYEGRASS
as a cover/forage crop after corn silage

GREEN SPIRIT has higher quality than rye, triticale or wheat if cut before boot stage. Is actually a better feed than alfalfa. Has more digestible fiber and sugars. Does not head out until approximately May 12. Cut GREEN SPIRIT mid April and it will be ready again 3 weeks later. Yes, that's 2 cuttings of GREEN SPIRIT and still time to plant corn. Tired of the way rye heads out and loses its quality so fast in spring? GREEN SPIRIT Ryegrass stays leafy until early May!

THE ADVANTAGES OF ROASTED CORN

* Earlier Harvest - Our roaster will dry corn down eight to ten points of moisture.

* Higher Digestibility - Research studies show that roasted corn is more digestible than high-moisture corn.

* Purer Feed - Our wet growing season has the potential of producing mold spores in standing corn that is harmful to livestock, swine and poultry. Our flame roaster can effectively remove mold spores.

* Drier Total Ration - With less fermented feed. Supplementing the hay and corn silage diet with dry corn aids better rumin health.

* Greater Profits - Dairy herds fed roasted corn advance two to eight lb. per cow in milk and improves herd health.

National Association Of Animal Breeders Conducts Annual Convention

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — In early August, the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) conducted its annual meeting here at the Holiday Inn University Plaza.

Saturday morning's NAAB/NDHIA combined educational session was moderated by Dr. Martin Sieber, NAAB's international marketing director. Attendees learned about "Progress of Animal ID in the U.S.," presented by Neil Hammerschmidt, executive director, dairy herd services, Holstein Association USA, Brattleboro, Vt., and "Recent Advances in Reproductive Technology to Enhance Pregnancy Rates in AI" was presented by Dr. William Thatcher, Dept. Dairy and Poultry Science, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla., whose work in this area is partially funded by NAAB research monies.

Next on the program was a panel discussion moderated by Dr. Paul Miller, NDHIA, about "Assessment of New DHIA." The four panelists included Dr. Denny Funk, chief genetics officer, ABS Global, DeForest, Wis.; Ryan Starkenburg, manager, herd advancement services, Holstein Association USA, Brattleboro, Vt.; Dr. George Wiggans, research geneticist, USDA-ARS, Beltsville, Md.; and Mark Witherspoon, manager, Mid-South DHIA, Springfield, Mo.

NAAB's Saturday afternoon business session began with Chairman Lloyd Ebersole's annual address to the delegates. Ebersole reviewed NAAB's strategic plan established in 1996, which showed that plan not only to be a good blueprint for the past, but that NAAB is still on target for the future. He then highlighted key recommendations of the plan and actions taken, one of which was the hiring of a consultant in Washington, D.C. to deal with political issues in both Washington and internationally. Also, a market research committee has been appointed to coordinate domestic market research that will be useful to NAAB members in providing valuable information regarding the changing needs of the dairy and beef producers.

Dr. Gordon A. Doak, NAAB president, reported to delegates that total semen sales for 1999 increased 2.7 percent over 1998. Export unit sales in 1999 decreased 4.6 percent and the dollar value of these exports decreased 8.7 percent. The top ten countries ranked on unit sales are Brazil, Argentina, Mexico, Canada, Italy, United Kingdom, The Netherlands, Chile, Saudi Arabia, and France.

Doak highlighted some of the committee activities for the past year, including the Dairy Sire Evaluation Committee, International Marketing Committee, Information Processing Committee, Research Committee, and Technical Committee. He stated that efforts of the council on dairy cattle breeding to negotiate unacceptable agreement with Cornell Research Foundation regarding their patent on test day model technology has not been very productive.

NAAB is working with the EU Competition Directorate regarding the German Animal Breeding Act that NAAB believes violates the community competition law.

Four directors were elected to serve on the NAAB board: Dr. Denny Funk, ABS Global, DeForest, Wis., who will fill the one-year unexpired term of Marc Van't Noordende and then be eligible to serve a three-year term; Gary Heckman, Genex/CRI, Shawano, Wis.; Lloyd Jungmann, Hawkeye Breeders Service, Adel, Iowa, serving his second three-year term; and Bill Ramsey, president on the board of directors of COBA/Select Sires, in Columbus, Ohio.

The NAAB delegates voted on and passed an amendment to the bylaw, which waives the requirement for an NAAB regular member to have his principal office located in the U.S.

At the NAAB board reorganization meeting, Bob Holterman, Accelerated Genetics, was elected chairman; Doug Blair, Alta Genetics, vice-chairman; and Dr. Don Monke, Select Sires, third member of the Executive Committee.

Dr. Gordon Doak, NAAB president, presented Lloyd Ebersole with two plaques — one for his tenure on the board as a director and the other for his service as chairman. Doak also presented to Tom Lyon, a retiring board member a plaque for his service on the board since 1997.

Saturday evening NAAB delegates and guests enjoyed a banquet dinner at the hotel, followed by an awards program. Awardees from Accelerated Genetics included John Prissel, who received the 100,000-Cow Award; David Herrmann, who received the 150,000 Cow Award; and William Sylla who was presented the 175,000 Cow Award. One awardee from Select Sires, Ray Reuble, was presented the 1,000,000 Unit Sales Award plaque.

Chairman Ebersole presented the Member Director Award for 2000 to Marvin Anderson, Accelerated Genetics, Baraboo, Wis. The Distinguished Service Award went to Roger Ripley, president and CEO, Accelerated Genetics, Baraboo, Wis. The Pioneer Award was presented to Bryce Weiker (retired) Noba, Inc., Tiffin, Ohio. The Research Award was presented to Dr. William Thatcher Department of Dairy and Poultry Science, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

NAAB's 2001 annual meeting will be Friday and Saturday, Aug. 3-4, at the Westin Crown Center Hotel, Kansas City, Mo.

House Ag Committee Delays Markup Of Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House Agriculture committee on Wednesday postponed a scheduled mark-up of a bill that would slow the Environmental Protection Agency's review of thousands of pesticides for risks to childrens' health.

The action likely kills any chance of Congress this year adopting the legislation, which was backed by U.S. farm groups and the pesticide industry.

However, lobbyists said chances of that are poor because Congress faces a heavy workload before it adjourns in early October ahead of the autumn elections.

The bill, sponsored by California Republican Richard Pombo and cosponsored by more than 200 other members, would give chemical makers more time to produce information about the safety of their pesticides.

Under the 1996 Food Quality Protection Act, the EPA must review some 9,000 pesticides to determine whether they pose a health risk for children. Critics say the agency has moved too quickly to phase out some of the most popular and widely used crop chemicals, based on computer models that do not include real-world data.

A 1999 study by the American Farm Bureau Federation estimated that a ban on organophosphates and related chemicals would slice U.S. total net farm income by $1.8 billion annually.

SOIL TESTING: HOW TO TAKE GOOD SOIL SAMPLES

Mark Goodson
York County Agent

Soil testing is an excellent method for estimating the fertility status of soil, and it provides valuable information for developing a sound fertility management program. Because the fertility status of a soil cannot be determined visually, a good soil test is essential.

A soil test is no better than the care given to taking samples.

Follow the guidelines listed below for taking soil samples. It is very important to completely and accurately fill out the soil test information sheet that goes to the lab with the sample.

For convenience in submitting more than three samples, a multiple soil sample form and kit is available, allowing you to send in up to 10 samples with one form. Mailing kits for submitting samples to the Agricultural Analytical Services Laboratory at Penn State are available from all Penn State Cooperative Extension offices.

Guidelines for taking soil samples:

- Do not wait until the last minute. The best time to sample is in the summer or fall.
- Take cores from at least 15 to 20 spots randomly over the field to obtain a representative sample. One sample should not represent more than 10 to 20 acres.
- Sample between rows. Avoid old fencerows, dead furrows, and other spots that are not representative of the whole field.
- Take separate samples from problem areas if they can be treated separately.
- In cultivated fields, sample to plow depth.
- Take two samples from no-till fields: one to a six-inch depth for lime and fertilizer recommendations, and one to a two-inch depth to monitor surface acidity.
- Sample permanent pastures to a three- to four-inch depth.
- Collect the samples in a clean container.
- Mix the core samplings, allow to air dry, and remove roots and stones.
- Fill the soil test mail-in container.
- Complete the information sheet, giving all of the information requested. Be sure to include the soil name. Remember, the recommendations can be only as good as the information supplied.

If the area has been in no-till corn management for two years or more, it is advisable to use a reliable field kit to measure the pH of the surface soil. Surface applications of nitrogen fertilizers and manure may acidify this layer rapidly and decrease herbicide effectiveness.

Collect several cores less than two-inches deep from the no-till area and mix thoroughly in a clean bucket. Remove a sample for pH measurement. Simple colorimetric pH kits normally are the most satisfactory for field use. If the pH of the surface soil is less than 6.2, take a standard soil sample for laboratory analysis. Apply the recommended lime as early as possible before corn plantings.

If this standard sample does not indicate a need for limestone and the surface pH is below 6.2, apply 2,000 pounds per acre of calcium carbonate equivalent. This amount should be adequate to neutralize the acidity created by the surface-applied nitrogen fertilizer.

Ephrata Fair Plans Tent City

For many, the leaves on the ground aren't the true sign of fall — the tents in the park are. The Ephrata Fair begins on Tuesday, Sept. 26, and tents spring up in the Ephrata Park days before.

The Ephrata Park is home to Tent City, part of the Ephrata Fair. Tent City features agricultural and commercial exhibits, including livestock, grain, and scarecrows, in addition to numerous contests and more.

Fairgoers can check out a variety of exhibits and competitions in Tent City, including goat and swine judging, tractor driving, a pig chase, and good old-fashioned tug-of-wars. There's homemade ice cream for sale and a great display of antique farm equipment, too. Make sure you check out the educational exhibit of hay bales displaying various sizes and techniques of baling.

The Ephrata Area Young Farmers' Association's refreshment stand offers delicious food Tuesday through Friday evening. They also conduct a special dinner on Tuesday night at 5 p.m.

The public is welcome to take advantage of the Tent City Tour and demonstrations offered Wednesday, Sept. 27, from 9-11 a.m. The Cloister FFA will give demonstrations at various stations located throughout Tent City. The tour is packed with information about the agricultural community. To arrange group tours, call Carolyn Pfautz at (717) 733-8172.

A convenient and free shuttle bus will be provided for transportation from uptown to Tent City on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. The bus will leave from the corner of south State and Franklin Street approximately every hour on the hour from 4-10 p.m. The shuttle will also be available on Senior Citizen Day, Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Bloomsburg Fair

According to a book about the fair written by David R. Millard, historians have called it a "street carnival." The men who first set it up called it an agricultural fair.

That was back in the fall of 1855 when Franklin Pierce was the 14th U.S. president and James Pollock from Northumberland County was the 13th governor of Pennsylvania. Columbia countians, about a thousand of them, dug into their respective pockets for the 10 cents that admitted them to this new adventure in Bloomsburg. How many others jumped over the rail fence will never be known. The big event was staged in Caleb Barton's field at the lower end of Second Street, now Main Street.

It all came about because of the enthusiasm of one man, Dr. John Taggart. He had visited a county fair in the northern part of Pennsylvania earlier in the summer. Impressed by the values to a community of an agricultural exhibition, he convinced others of the benefits that could come from such a movement in Columbia County.

Finally, five men held a consultation and decided to undertake an agricultural fair if they could find willing exhibitors of fruits, vegetables, and other farm products. Through personal solicitation, they found enough interest to encourage them and proceeded with arrangements for an event that was to become The Bloomsburg Fair.

The men who ventured all of this were Dr. John Ramsey, B.F. Hartman, Caleb Barton, William Neal, and I.W. Hartman.

Much has changed since 1855, but it is still a county fair.

Admission gates to the fair open daily 7 a.m.-9 p.m.

Livestock animals are not required to be in barns until 8 p.m. Sunday.

Agricultural, arts and crafts, educational, horticultural and industrial exhibition buildings are open daily 9 a.m.-10 p.m.

Poultry and rabbit exhibits open daily at 9 a.m.-10 p.m.

Fairgrounds are located off exit 34 of Route 80.

Fair admission to grounds is $3. Children 12 and under admitted free all week. For more information, call the fair at (570) 784-4949 or contact them on the web at bloomsburgfair.com.

Back To School: American Egg Board Launches Ad Campaigns

As a boost to the advertising schedule, American Egg Board (AEB) will be going "Back-To-School." A special four-week campaign to inform moms that kids who eat breakfast do better in school will be launched in late August around the time kids are returning to school.

A new TV commercial featuring space-rocket graphics poses the question "Want your kids to be rocket scientists?". It goes on to suggest that eating breakfast will improve a student's grades and reminds moms that "If it's not eggs, it's not breakfast." Radio commercials with a "Rocket Scientist" theme will also be included in the schedule.

The 15-second TV commercial will run on early morning, primetime and cable TV. There will also be a full-page "Rocket Scientist" print ad in the August/ September issue of Healthy Kids and the September issue of Parents magazines.

The new campaign is designed to appeal to the hopes and aspirations moms have for their children, and highlights protein as one of the important nutritional benefits of eggs.

The Back-To-School advertising will be in addition to AEB's regular "I Love Eggs" campaign.

New School Foodservice Promotion

At the recent AEB meeting, approval was given on a new program to promote eggs and diced chicken to school foodservice operations.

To determine needs in this area, a survey was sent to all state egg organizations, with results of this survey incorporated into the new school foodservice promotional program.

The two-year promotional program will be kicked off in the fall of this year. This program involves building awareness of egg and diced chicken through a school foodservice recipe contest. School foodservice managers will submit their most popular egg an diced chicken menu items in one of four categories:

1) Breakfast recipe with eggs
2) Lunch recipe with eggs
3) Lunch recipe with diced chicken
4) Hand held egg or diced chicken menu items

Contest promotion will include an announcement ad that will appear this fall in School Foodservice & Nutrition, a publication read by 60,000 school foodservice director and managers.

Direct mail campaigns to selected school foodservice managers and directors will also be conducted.

The recipe contest judging will be planned for the early part of 2001. A school foodservice merchandising guide will be developed, which will include the winning contest recipes as well as promotional ideas for eggs and diced chicken.

Dairylea Cooperative Continues Positive Trends

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairylea Cooperative Inc. concluded fiscal year 2000 with a strong operational and financial performance, building on the positive trends that it established during the 1900s.

"Our record speaks for itself," said Rick Smith, Dairylea's Chief Executive Officer. "Since divesting of our plant operations in 1988, we have posted a profit every year. The total equity in the Cooperative has grown every year, in large part due to retained earnings. And our borrowing, as a percentage of our total assets, is the lowest it has been in five years."

"We have never been stronger," he stated, in announcing year-end results. For example, profits for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2000, were more than $1.5 million, exceeding the average annual profit of $1.3 million Dairylea has posted since divesting of its processing and manufacturing operations in the late 1980s.

Milk marketed for the year totaled 5.1 billion pounds. The Cooperative now is marketing nearly five times the amount of milk it did at the beginning of the 1990s.

Total equity in the Cooperative is $14.8 million, an increase of nearly $10 million since Dairylea ceased operating milk plants. Every year, retained earnings from profitable operations have contributed to the growth in equity of the Cooperative.

Borrowing, as a percentage of total assets, was 11.3 percent, down substantially from a high of 31.8 percent in 1991.

"We certainly are proud of what has been accomplished this past year and throughout the 1990s," said Smith. "And while building a strong, progressive milk-marketing organization, we also focused a considerable amount of our energies on developing programs and services to impact the bottom line of our members' operations."

During the past year, Dairylea launched two new programs for farmers: Agri-Secure, a comprehensive estate planning program; and Agri-Placement Services, an agricultural labor sourcing and training service.

A major development for Dairylea during the past year was entering into a venture with Dairy Farmers of America to create a more efficient milk-marketing entity in the Northeast. Called Dairy Market Services, LLC (DMS), the venture markets more than 10 billion pounds of raw milk annually, provided by more than 6,000 dairy producers located throughout New England, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia. DMS supplies the milk requirements of 90 processors and manufacturers in the region.

AFBF, Other Farm Groups Want Action Against EU

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The American Farm Bureau along with two other major farm groups and a large food distributor said recently they were "deeply troubled" by the Clinton administration's two-month delay in adopting new European Union targets for retaliation in a pair of agricultural trade disputes.

"We believe that continued delays in the implementation of this provision have powerful implications for the seriousness our nation attaches to the enforcement of trade agreements," said a letter from the American Farm Bureau, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, the American Meat Institute, and Chiquita Brands International Inc.

The groups sent a letter to White House chief of staff John Podesta, asking him to meet with them this week and explain why the so-called "carousel" list has been held up.

Congress passed legislation requiring the Clinton administration to change the list of EU goods slapped with 100-percent tariffs every six months until Brussels complies with World Trade Organization rulings in disputes over hormone-treated beef and U.S. bananas.

The first set of changes were due to have been announced by June 19.

USDA released a report on the commercial disappearance for milk and select dairy products. This data was reported on a milkfat basis. Over the period January through June of 2000, U.S. milk production was up 3.3 percent. Accounting for increases in beginning stocks (January 1) and imports, the supply of milk was up 4.1 percent. Also, government removals of surplus dairy products was also up. As a result, ending stocks as of June 30 increased, up 10.8 percent relative to a year ago.

This Allentown Little Lamb Champion Being Kept For Breeding

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Meredith Ruzowicz knew she could have a winner in her crop of ewe lambs, so she saved one for the market lamb championship at Allentown.

Her decision paid off handsomely recently when she was awarded supreme market lamb at Allentown Fair.

Budd Martin, show judge from Willard, Ohio who raises registered Dorset, Hampshire, and Suffolk crossbreds, said Meredith's 4-H heavyweight champion, at 120 pounds, was "big in top, big in loin."

Meredith, 18, daughter of Leslie Ruzowicz, Newtown Square, is a Delaware County 4-H'er. Meredith is enrolled in Delaware County Community College, where she is studying liberal arts.

The Suffolk ewe, according to Meredith, is homebred and she plans to use the lamb for breeding.

She has exhibited at Sussex, Kimberton, and Goshen fairs, and plans to show at Keystone International Livestock Expo and Farm Show.

Friday of the fair, in the breed show, champion ram went to the Southdown yearling ram exhibited by Bruce Snyder and Gene Pletz. Champion ewe went to Jeffrey Everett, Upper Black Eddy, with his Oxford yearling ewe.

Following is a list of show placings.

Somerset County Fair Celebrates 100 Years

The multi-generated Somerset County Fair attracts Mary Geary, 95, New Centerville and Eva Compton, Salisbury, 100. Director Lynn Shaffer holds grandchild Anni Shaffer, 22 months.

Somerset County Fair Queen Melissa Schrock and Byron Glessner, fair board president cut the cake for guests as the centennial festivities begin in Meyersdale.

this summer. She was recognized for being the same age as the fair. Also on hand, was 95-year-old Mary Geary, New Centerville, who relies on a walker to preserve an independent lifestyle.

Besides complimentary popcorn, the fair directors served burnt sugar cake and drink to hundreds of guests and gave away numerous gifts during door prize drawings.

Probably the last decade has seen the fair directors debating hotter issues than ever before and making more radical changes to do old things in a new fresh way. Glessner says implementing a one-price admission that covered the grandstand performances and midway rides was one of them. "We switched to pay-one-price and the people have supported it," he said, with gratitude about the decision three years ago.

Another debate was when to hold the Junior Livestock Sale. They moved it to Saturday morning from the Friday night slot it had held for years. The result was successful and Glessner believes a more convenient time for everyone involved, he said.

HARVEST PRICING STRATEGIES FOR CORN & BEANS

John Berry
Lehigh County
Marketing Agent

While anything is possible, it appears that corn and soybean prices will remain well below the loan rate through harvest. Harvesttime pricing strategies will be centered on the use of the marketing loan program.

Strategy selection will be influenced by the availability and cost of storage, local basis, willingness to use various pricing tools, and payment limitation considerations. The primary objective will be to net a price in excess of the Commodity Credit Corporation loan rate without undue risk of a net price below the loan rate.

Availability of permanent storage may be a problem. Many bins are full of wheat. The expected large crop will keep basis levels very weak and corn futures spreads relatively large. If so, premiums for later delivery will be present compared to harvest cash bids.

Congress has in place a $75,000 limit on loan deficiency payments (LDP) and marketing loan gains for crops produced during 2000.

Strategies to consider:

- If the basis remains weak and the premium for later delivery is large, producers might establish LDP on a portion of the crop and forward price for future delivery. This strategy requires the FSA posted county price (PCP) track local cash bids fairly closely and the premium for later delivery exceed the cost of storage.
- Producers can store a portion of the crop under loan and lock in the repayment rate for a period of 60 days after the funds have been dispersed.

Again, this strategy works well if the PCP tracks local cash bids and cash prices remain low during harvest. The loan repayment lock-in allows producers to benefit from a post harvest price rally by selling the crop at a higher price and repaying the loan at a lower rate.

The most likely time for a price increase is December. The application for loan should be made early. If prices remain low into late October, the repayment rate could be established at that time. If prices do not rally, the loan can be repaid at the daily rate any time before maturity.

The "Cost" of Doing Research Part I – The University

ducted includes developing better industrial products, discovering new information technologies, creating new materials for a variety of fabrication purposes, developing the next generation of computers and software, improving nanofabrication technologies, identifying ways of improving food safety, enhancing food production and food production efficiency, developing a greater understanding of human, plant and animal diseases, conducting cutting-edge biomedical and biotechnological research to produce new machines, and contribute to a more modern national defense system.

The research conducted not only benefits society but also provides many opportunities for students to be involved in the knowledge-generation process. Learning how to conduct research is a process that requires a lot of hands-on experiences and practice For students in Graduate School, this invariably leads to the publication of a M.S or Ph.D. thesis that describes the results of their research. Importantly, many undergraduate students get opportunities to learn about and conduct research in classes as well as in professors' laboratories. This provides a wonderful opportunity while helping students identify future career possibilities Many undergraduate students work in research labs over the summer and have the opportunity to become more proficient at conducting research.

World-class research universities make many discoveries each year that are of commercial value This is an important return on the investment in research One example of this is a new start-up company, EIEICO, that was just created to commercialize new technological discoveries made in the Departments of Poultry Science and Dairy and Animal Science Application of discovery research leads to the creation of jobs and enhances economic activity in Pennsylvania

To conduct world-class research that makes life better costs a lot Of the more than $393,000,000 spent annually at Penn State, more than $200,000,000 comes from the federal government and includes grants, contracts, cooperative agreements and agricultural research opportunities. About $55,000,000 was provided by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the form of grants, contracts and both agricultural and general research appropriations. The private sector support was approximately $69,000,000 for industry-sponsored research; the University provides the remainder

I have given you a small glimpse of research at Penn State Because of the scope of research ongoing at Penn State, I will discuss research activities in the College of Agricultural Sciences and the Department of Dairy and Animal Science and how they benefit Pennsylvania and the world in my next article

Farm Management

• It is possible to establish LDP at harvest and store a portion of the crop unpriced. This strategy is more risky since a price decline after establishing LDP results in a price below loan rate. The lower the harvest price, the less risk. This strategy is attractive if the expected price increase exceeds the cost of storage and exceeds the premium for later delivery.

• For those facing payment limitations, the use of the certificate program might be considered. Crops are harvested, stored, and placed under loan. This program is similar to taking LDP, except gains are not subject to payment limitations.

• If a produced wants to speculate on a price increase above the loan rate, they can harvest and store the crop unpriced without establishing LDP. This is a longer-term strategy that uses the loan rate as the price floor, since the crop can be placed under loan or LDPs established any time prior to May

• Finally, if storage space is limited, producers may establish LDP at harvest and price the crop for immediate delivery. This can result in a price near the loan. Based on current basis and spreads, this strategy is more favorable to soybeans than corn. Current spreads suggest using storage for corn.

Re-ownership of beans with futures or options could be considered if prices are extremely low.

Livestock/dairy producers take note: Has a portion of expected feed useage been contracted? Typically, feed costs are near the top of the list as a perecentage of input expenses. Even though it hurts to miss the absolute bottom of the feed cost curve, current grain prices are at historic lows. Now, using 1978-1999 "end of July" data, wheat is 22 percent below the 22-year average, oats are 29 percent below the 22-year average, corn is 20 percent below the 22-year average, and soybeans are 31 percent below the 22-year av.

Congressman Pitts Makes Annual Farm Tour

LOWER OXFORD (Chester Co.)-Congressman Joe Pitts (R, PA-16) visited farms on Tuesday with stops in Narvon and Iva in Lancaster County, and Lower Oxford and West Grove in Chester County. This was his annual farm tour. Nearly a hundred farmers came out to meet him at the various farms, where he discussed repealing the estate tax, foreign "dumping" of imported produce, and other issues important to agriculture.

"As much or more than any other profession, farmers are getting killed by taxes," said Congressman Pitts. "The 'death tax' takes up to 60 percent of a farm's value when it passes from one generation to the next. Farmers may own valuable land, but they often have very poor cash flow. How can anyone expect them to pay these taxes? It's no wonder so many farms are going up for sale.

"If we're going to preserve the farms that make Lancaster and Chester counties such special places to live-if we're going to preserve our heritage-we absolutely must make farming a profitable business. We have to stop taxing our farmers to death and we have to help them by opening up new markets and fighting for fair international trade practices."

In the morning, Congressman Pitts met with Lancaster County farmers at Wanner's Pride and Joy Farm (owned by the Alfred Wanner family) near Narvon in Salisbury Township and the Rohrer Farm (owned by Todd and Roger Rohrer) near Iva in Paradise Township. In the afternoon, he met with Chester County farmers at Bethel Hill Dairy (owned by Kevin and Robin Martin) in Lower Oxford Township and at Needham's Mushroom Farm (owned by Donald B., Donald Y., and Art Needham) in West Grove. Congressman Pitts makes a tour of farms in the 16th Congressional District every year.

Penn State Dairymen's Club

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairymen's Club is soliciting nominations for their annual service award. The honor is rotated through three industry segments producers, industry representatives, and educators. This year the club will recognize a dairy producer who has worked towards the advancement and betterment of the dairy industry. Any person is eligible to nominate candidates for this award, and nominees do not have to be Penn State alumni.

This year will mark the tenth award. Last year's award went to Charles Itle, who manages the annual All-American Dairy Show each September, the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in October, and the livestock shows at the Pennsylvania Farm Show each January. Previous winners include Robert Patton (Monsanto), William Conyngham (Hillside Farm), Larry Specht (Penn State), Dean Amick (PA DHIA), Sam Williams (Bryncoed Farm), Steve Spencer (Penn State), Duane Norman (USDA), Jay Houser (Penn-Dell Farm), and Larry Muller (Penn State).

To make a reservation for the dinner meeting, contact Beth Raney at 405 Ag Admin, University Park PA 16802, phone 814-863-2525 or send e-mail to bnr1@psu.edu.

All nominations of dairy producers should be submitted to Jayne Sebright at P.O. Box 529 East Berlin, PA 17316. Or send via e-mail to rjsebright@supernet.com. Deadline for nominations is October 1, 2000. There is no specific format for nominations.

First Lehigh Roundup Sale At Allentown A Success

ANDY ANDREWS

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Half the proceeds from the grand champion hog, exhibited by Timothy Billig at the Lehigh County 4-H Roundup Sale last Saturday, was donated to Lehigh County Special Olympics.

The hog was purchased for $575 by MidAtlantic Farm Credit during the Lehigh County 4-H Roundup Sale conducted for the first time in recent history at the Allentown Fair.

The sale included 10 steers that averaged $1,360, 12 lambs that averaged $335.42, and 40 hogs that averaged $303.38, according to show coordinator Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown.

A cake donated by Giant Foods was sold for $400, purchased by S & S Amusements and John and Dee's Fun and Games Concessions.

There were a total of 134 buyers at the sale and 29 4-H exhibitors. Auctioneer was Ralph Zettlemoyer.

Bennecoff noted that the Lehigh County 4-H livestock clubs would "like to say 'thank you' to all the support we had to have a successful sale!"

Justine Ann Bennecoff exhibited the grand champion lamb, purchased by the Garges Brothers Livestock for $600.

Reserve champion hog at the Lehigh County 4-H Roundup was exhibited by Daniel Billig. Leidy's Pork Products, Inc., Souderton, represented by John Sholl, purchased the hog for $400.

For Marketing Purposes, Tobacco Grower Survey Will Arrive By Mail

noted Hess this week. They include: should the association continue? What type of system should be used — the auction or private sale?

This past auction season offered little help for growers, many of whom held onto their tobacco for another year and perhaps better prices. Some growers, noted Hess, could move tobacco to Maryland markets with some success.

Since the cooperative marketing association was formed, about 625 members remain. Only about 45 members dropped out.

"That number almost indicates they want (the association) to go on," said Hess.

But according to the cooperative, for every pound of tobacco sold, three cents must be "checked off" the price, including tobacco sold at auction or privately.

This year, growers sold only a million pounds of tobacco, mostly in Lancaster, according to Hess. About 3-4 million pounds remain unsold.

The checkoff goes to pay bills — a great deal (about $30,000) to rent the building in New Holland where the auction is conducted.

If growers don't send in the checkoff, "we can't operate this year," Hess said.

A small amount from private sales has been received. But bills remain to be paid.

The survey deadline is Oct. 1 this year. That also happens to be the deadline for members to decide if they want to stay with the co-op. If they opt out, they must do so by Oct. 1. If they don't, they must continue to abide by the rules of the co-op.

The survey has nothing to do with the government. "We need the feedback to come back to us so we know how to plan," Hess said. That planning includes obtaining the right size of auction house dependent on how many acres of tobacco are grown.

If members want to opt out, Hess noted they must write a statement to the effect that they no longer want to be a member, sign it, date it, and return it to the attention of Dennis Hess, PTMA, 870 Clay Rd., Lititz, PA 17543.

For more information about the PTMA or the upcoming survey, contact Hess at (717) 626-6970.

September is National Honey Month. Many of the crops honey bees help to pollinate are harvested in September, so this time of year it's appropriate to pay tribute to honey bees.

According to information from the national honey board at www.honey.com, bees not only make honey, but they are also vitally important in crop fertilization.

As honey bees pass from blossom to blossom, gathering the nectar they need to make honey, they collect and redistribute pollen around the crop.

As the pollinated seeds develop they produce natural hormones that promote growth and flavor. There are many fruits, nuts and vegetables that are dependent on the honey bee for pollination.

According to website information, pollination is the necessary first step to start more than 90 food crops growing. These include almonds, melons, cranberries, apricots, lemons, kiwi fruit, and many others.

Check out these recipes for a few ideas to make use of the sweetener. All of the recipes are from the National Honey Board unless otherwise noted.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

September brings a cornucopia of familiar, and seasonal, farmstead changes.

Tall, lush, green corn has begun to brown, leaves fading from the bottom up, ears beginning to droop, as moisture in the plants dry and ear kernels harden toward maturity. Forage harvesters chew noisily through the earliest stands, chopping the sturdy plants to bits, to pack away as winter chow for chomping cows.

Trees hang thick with the red blush and pale gold of apples at the orchards nearby, a bumper crop of summertime sunshine packed into juicy and flavorful, fist-sized nuggets of nutrition. Pears and purple plums have begun turning up in our kitchen-counter fruit basket, but have short stays because they are two of The Farmer's favorite grab-and-go snacks.

Pumpkins begin filing onto center stage at local markets, a favorite of our now-kindergartner, eldest grandson, who pleads to begin picking our few large, but not yet ready, fruits of the vine. Hopefully, they won't rot before they finish maturing, as so many vine crops, including pumpkins, have done this sticky, swampy summer.

What we don't usually expect here in September are baby chicks.

Well, actually it was a day in late August when I stepped out the front door to welcome the grandkids and found them with noses deep into a cardboard box in The Farmer's hands.

"Something alive," a warning instantly flashed in my brain.

Sure enough. Inside the little box — very much alive — were seven small chicks, just beginning to poke tiny feathers through their fluff. Five white and two a mottled brown.

"Guineas," grinned The Farmer.

A flock of a couple dozen guinea fowl once roamed the meadow, yard and garden here, until the aggressive local foxes wiped them out. All but one. Which has hung out here, all alone, for at least two years, finding company with a few old, bantam-crossed chickens and the usual farmstead pigeon population. We figured he must be lonely, and have often discussed acquiring a few chicks, but they are available on a limited, seasonal basis. And aren't cheap.

The Farmer had picked these up as week-old "leftovers" at a farm supply store at a slashed price. Natural housing spot was — where else? — the kitchen, where the box was tucked in a cozy spot between the wall and appliance cart, with a window screen across the top. I dug out a curved-neck sewing lamp from under the mending pile and perched in on top the screen, an electronic "hen" to keep the babies warm.

A portion of coarse-textured calf starter feed, sifted through a kitchen colander, solved the feed problem as the chicks gleefully pecked their way through a handful of the siftings scattered among the wood shavings bedding base. Within a few days, their rations were balanced with chopped lettuce, lawn grass snipped in fine pieces and handfuls of lush, moist chickweed.

In less than a week, the guinea flock had outgrown the box and were installed in the large pet carrier in which Derra, the family yellow lab, had flown from the west coast. It's an ideal makeshift poultry housing, relocated to the basement to banish the chick-nursery "fragrance" from the kitchen.

I stepped into the house one day while the chicks were still in the kitchen to find the window screen bumped loose from the box. With ever-busy grandson Caleb in tow, I plunked the screen back on the box and kept moving. After dark, Derra Dog dashed into the house following our usual evening dog-walk and promptly planted her nose behind the computer printer table in the office, tail going furiously. A mouse, I figured.

Then I spotted the frightened guinea chick huddled back there. Which had apparently escaped earlier in the day when the screen was ajar.

Good thing Derra's a bird dog.

Ushering in another September tradition. Hunting season.

Felton To Head Penn State Entomology Department

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Gary Felton, professor of entomology at the University of Arkansas, has been appointed head of the department of entomology in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Dr. Felton brings to this position an outstanding record of quality teaching and research, as well as excellent leadership skills that will help continue to move our entomology programs to a higher level," said Robert Steele, dean of the college. "He is a great addition to the college's leadership team."

Felton's research interests include insect-pest interactions, the physiological mode of action of natural plant products, oxidative stress and insect biology, and nutritional physiology. He has received research grants from a wide range of agencies, including the USDA and the National Science Foundation. He also holds patents for ultraviolet protectants for insect pathogens and for using insect glucose oxidase as an elicitor of plant resistance.

Felton earned his bachelor's degree in biological science from the University of California, Irvine, in 1975. He earned a master's degree in entomology from the University of Kentucky in 1983 and received his doctorate in entomology from the University of California, Davis in 1988.

He was a postdoctoral associate in the entomology department at University of California, Davis, before joining the University of Arkansas as assistant professor of entomology in 1990. He was named associate professor in 1994 and full professor in 1999.

Felton has published more than 40 refereed articles, eight book chapters, and many other publications. He has presented numerous invited lectures and serves on the editorial board for the Archives of Insect Biochemistry and Physiology.

He was invited speaker and moderator for the Gordon Conference on Insect-Plant Interactions in 1998 and chaired the plenary session for the Keystone Symposium, "Signals and Signal Perception in Biotic Interactions in Plants," in 2000.

Felton is a panel member of the National Science Foundation Physiological and Evolutionary Physiology Program. In 1998, he served as panel manager for the U.S. Department of Agriculture National Research Initiative for Entomology/Nematology.

• Sunshine Smoothie - In a blender or food processor container, combine 1 cup plain or vanilla yogurt, ½ cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons honey, 1 cup cut-up fresh fruit and ½ cup crushed ice; process until smooth.

• Honey-Orange Yogurt - Mix together 1 cup plain or vanilla yogurt, 2 tablespoons honey and 2 tablespoons undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate.

• Use as a topping for frozen waffles or stir into hot oatmeal for a hearty and healthy treat.

• Citrus Times Two - Combine 2 tablespoons honey and 1 tablespoon undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate; drizzle over grapefruit halves and broil, if desired.

Main Dish Sauces

Cook 2 tablespoons chopped onion in cup butter until onion is translucent. Stir in cup honey, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 tablespoons chopped fresh basil. Bring to a boil; serve over fish or poultry.

A Honey For Every Occasion

What do you have to show for your life's work? It takes 864 honey worker bees a whole lifetime to produce one pound of honey from a single blossom type, according to the National Honey Board.

Information from the Honey Board's website encourages you to celebrate all those bees' lifework by creating your own "flavored" honey.

Although various honey varieties are available in different regions of the country, you can bring home some Southwest by adding crushed red pepper or some snappy citrus flavor by adding grapefruit, lemon, or orange variations.

Fresh mint, whole allspice, or fresh ginger root adds spice to the sweet taste of honey.

Always begin with a milder variety. In general, milder varieties (such as alfalfa or clover) have a lighter color. All you need in addition to the honey is a sauce pan, a strainer and a flavor.

Use 1 (1-lb) jar (1½ cups) honey and add one of the following ingredients.

Citrus Honeys

Add 1 tablespoon grated grapefruit, lemon, lime or orange peel. Heat mixture on low heat. Let stand at least 2 hours. Strain and pour honey into 8-ounce jar with lid.

Mint Medly

Add ¼ cup chopped fresh mint. Heat mixture on low heat. Let stand at least 2 hours. Strain and pour honey into 8-ounce jar with lid. Add 1 tablespoon julienne fresh ginger root. Heat mixture on low 10 minutes. Let stand at least 2 hours. Strain and pour honey into 8-ounce jar with lid.

Honey 'N Spice

Add 1 tablespoon whole allspice. Heat mixture on low 10 minutes. Let stand at least 2 hours. Heat mixture on low 10 minutes, a second time. Let stand overnight. Strain and pour honey into 8-ounce jar with lid.

Hot Honey

Add 1½ teaspoons dried hot crushed red pepper. Heat mixture on low 10 minutes. Let stand 1 to 2 hours.

Strain and pour honey into 8-ounce jar with lid.

Be careful not to boil or scorch the honey when heating. All flavors make about 1 cup.

Featured Recipe Helpful Hints For Honey

HONEY ROASTED APPLES

4 medium baking apples
½ cup honey
¼ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
½ teaspoon ground ginger
⅓ cup hot water

Pare top ⅓ of apples and remove core leaving ½-inch of core on bottom. Place apples in oiled baking dish. Combine honey, orange juice, lemon juice, orange peel and ginger; mix well. Spoon over apples allowing mixture to fill centers and coat entire surface. Pour water into baking dish. Bake, covered, at 400F 15 minutes. Remove cover and bake 30 minutes longer or until apples are glazed and tender; baste with liquid from baking dish every 15 minutes.

Microwave Method: Pare and core apples and mix glaze ingredients following directions above; omit water in pan. Arrange apples in a circle, ½-inch apart, in a microwave-safe pan. Cover tightly with plastic wrap. Microwave at HIGH (100%) 8 to 12 minutes (depending on size of apples) until apples are tender; baste apples and rotate dish every 2 to 3 minutes. Let stand 3 to 5 minutes before serving.

If the golden color and syrupy sweetness of honey tempts your taste buds, check out the National Honey Board's web page for cooking ideas, interesting facts, and colorful pictures. The following tips were taken from the web page at http://www.honey.com/.

Cooking with Honey

To substitute honey for granulated sugar in recipes, begin by substituting honey for up to half of the sugar called for in the recipe. With a little experimentation, honey can replace all the sugar in some recipes.

When baking with honey, remember the following:

Reduce any liquid called for by ¼ cup for each cup of honey used. Add ½ teaspoon baking soda for each cup of honey used. Reduce oven temperature by 25 degrees to prevent overbrowning.

Because of its high fructose content, honey has a higher sweetening power than sugar. This means you can use less honey than sugar to achieve the desired sweetness.

When measuring honey, coat the measuring cup with nonstick cooking spray or vegetable oil before adding the honey. The honey will slide right out.

A 12-ounce jar of honey equals a standard measuring cup.

Storing Honey

Store honey at room temperature.

Storing honey in the refrigerator accelerates the honey's crystallization, the natural process in which liquid in honey becomes solid.

If your honey crystallizes, simply place the honey jar in warm water and stir until the crystals dissolve. Or, place the honey in a microwave-safe container with the lid off and microwave it, stirring every 30 seconds, until the crystals dissolve. Be careful not to boil or scorch the honey.

Color, Flavor and Form

Honeys differ in color and flavor depending on what blossoms the honey bees visit in search of nectar. Honey color ranges from almost colorless to dark amber brown and its flavor varies from mild to bold. As a general rule, light-colored honey is milder in taste and dark-colored honey is stronger.

Honey Beauty Recipes

If you're looking for a golden glow, you could try a few of these beauty ideas from the National Honey Board.

Honey Cleansing Scrub — Mix 1 tablespoon of honey with 2 tablespoons finely ground almonds and ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Rub gently onto face. Rinse off with warm water.

Firming Face Mask — Whisk together 1 tablespoon honey, 1 egg white, 1 teaspoon glycerin (available at drug and beauty stores) and enough flour to form a paste (approximately ¼ cup). Smooth over face and throat. Leave on 10 minutes.

Rinse off with warm water.

Hair Conditioner — Mix ½ cup honey and ¼ cup olive oil. (Use 2 tablespoons oil for normal hair.) Work a small amount at a time through hair until coated. Cover hair with a shower cap; leave on 30 minutes. Remove shower cap; shampoo well and rinse. Dry as normal.

Facial Toner — In blender, puree 1 tablespoon honey with a peeled, cored apple. Smooth over face; leave on 15 minutes. Rinse with cool water.

Moisture Mask — Mix 2 tablespoons honey with 2 teaspoons milk. Smooth over face and throat. Leave on 10 minutes. Rinse off with warm water.

Smoothing Skin Lotion — Mix 1 teaspoon honey with 1 teaspoon vegetable oil and ¼ teaspoon lemon juice. Rub into hands, elbows, heels and anywhere that feels dry. Leave on 10 minutes. Rinse off with water.

Skin Softening Bath — Add ¼ cup honey to bath water for a fragrant, silky bath.

Hair Shine — Stir 1 teaspoon honey into 4 cups (1 quart) warm water. Blondes may wish to add a squeeze of lemon.

After shampooing, pour mixture through hair. Do not rinse out. Dry as normal.

Beef Contest Entries Make End-Of-Summer Sizzle

Thanks to the many readers who made the Beef Contest a culinary success. This is a continuation of the entries we received. The recipes are not printed in any particular order. Winners were chosen randomly and a list of the winning names was printed on page B2 of last week's issue. Happy eating!

SLOPPY JOE SANDWICHES

1 pound ground beef
½ cup ketchup
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ cup chopped onion
Salt and pepper to taste

Brown ground beef, drain off excess fat. Return ground beef to sauce pan. Add onion and stir until onion is softened. Add remaining ingredients. Stir to combine. Simmer at least 30 minutes before serving on hamburger rolls. The flavor improves if the meal is simmered longer.

Everyone seems to like this recipe my mother gave me.

Deborah Button
Jarrettsville, Md.

SKILLET SPAGHETTI

1 pound ground beef or veal
¼ cup chopped onion
5 cups tomato juice
¼ cup ketchup
1½ teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup brown sugar
8 ounces pasta noodles

In a large skillet cook hamburger and onions until browned. Pour off fat. Except for pasta, add remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Add pasta and simmer until tender, about 20 minutes. Serve with Parmesan cheese.

This is a quick and yummy meal and it's very easy to make as a casserole and give as a gift to a busy person. We raise veal calves so I often substitute ground beef for veal.

DELUXE BEEF BAR-B-Q

3 pound beef roast
3 pounds ground beef
1 onion, minced
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup brown sugar
2 10½ cans cream of chicken soup, undiluted
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cup steak of BBQ sauce

Boil roast until tender. Drain and break into stringy bits. Brown ground beef and drain. Combine all ingredients and simmer 45 minutes to one hour. Serve on hamburger buns and freeze leftovers.

I like to use leftover roast beef for this recipe. I also keep some in the freezer for unexpected guests.

BEEF BAR-B-Q

1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
1 cup ketchup
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt

Fry ground beef and onion. Add other ingredients. Simmer 10 to 12 minutes. Spoon onto hamburger buns.

This is our favorite beef barb-q recipe and I serve it frequently for simple meals.

BAKED STEAK

1 round steak
1 beaten egg
About 2 cups seasoned bread-crumbs
About 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
Salt and pepper to taste
8-ounce can mushroom gravy

Cut round steak into serving-size pieces (about four ounces or the size of your closed fist). Dip the pieces of round steak into the beaten egg. Generously cover round steak pieces with bread crumbs.

After heating oil in the skillet, brown both sides of the breaded meat. In a single layer, arrange meat in a greased 9X13-inch baking pan. Salt and pepper to taste. Pour mushroom gravy over meat.

Cover with aluminum foil. Bake 350 degrees for 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is sufficiently tender.

Ruby Kwisnek

FROZEN MEATLOAF

15 pounds fresh ground beef
8 cups tomato juice
2½ cups ketchup
10 eggs
7 cups oatmeal
16 teaspoons salt
2½ teaspoons black pepper
2½ cups chopped onion
¼ cup brown sugar

Place fresh ground beef in a large tub. In another large bowl mix the remaining ingredients. When thoroughly mixed add to ground beef and mix thoroughly.

Place in plastic bags one pound size (or whatever size desired) and put in freezer.

This recipe is very handy. Thawed meat can be made into meatloaf of meatballs. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

BISCUIT BARBECUE

1 pound ground beef
10-ounce tube refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
½ cup ketchup
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Separate dough into 10 biscuits and flatten them into 5-inch circle. Press each into the bottom and up the sides of a greased muffin cup. Set aside.

In a skillet, brown ground beef and drain. In a small bowl, mix ketchup, brown sugar, vinegar and chili powder. Stir together until smooth. Add to meat and mix well. Divide meat mixture into the biscuit-lined muffin cups, about ¼ cup for each. Sprinkle tops with cheese.

Bake 375 degrees for 18-20 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes then remove from tins and serve. Yields 10 servings.

This recipe is a tasty variation from beef barbeque. My children, Kelly, 4, and Andrew, 11, like to help me prepare this fun recipe. Great for picnics or a fast supper. My husband Dave and I live on dairy farm in Southern York County.

3-pound chuck roast
½ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon oregano
1 tablespoon basil
½ teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Fill the charcoal holder and light to prepare the smoker for the meat. While the charcoal is burning but the coals are not yet white, prepare the meat.

Sprinkle both sides of the roast with the Worcestershire sauce. In a small bowl combine pepper, salt, basil, and oregano. Rub both sides of the roast with the mixture.

When the coals are ready and the temperature gauge on the smoker is at the ideal setting fill the drip pan with water. Place smoke hickory chips on the hot coals. Place the drip pan in its spot in the smoker. Next place the roast on the top rack of the smoker and place the lid on the smoker.

Periodically check the smoker to make sure you have heat and that there is water in the drip pan. Roast the meat for approximately 4 hours. Use a meat thermometer to test the doneness. Enjoy.

The leftovers are good cut up in small pieces and mixed in salads.

My family enjoys this recipe because it gives the beef a different flavor. Also I put the meat in the smoker early in the afternoon, go back to the barn to finish the work and when the work is done the meat is finished in time for supper.

BEEF VOLCANOES

1½ pounds ground beef
2 eggs
¼ cups tomato juice
1½ cups quick oats
¼ cup onion
¼ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup tomato juice
10 (1 inch square) cheese pieces

Mix the first nine ingredients and shape into balls. Place onto greased casserole dish and press cheese squares into center of each ball. Pour one cup tomato juice over all. Bake 35-40 minutes at 350 degrees.

This recipe is really quick, and easy to make. The contents also bake in less time than meat loaf if you happen to run a little short.

BEEF CASSEROLE DINNER

3 bacon strips
1 small onion, chopped
1 pound ground beef
8 ounces elbow macaroni
1 can (2½ cups) tomatoes
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Partially fry bacon, then remove from pan. Saute onion in bacon fat. Add beef and cook until brown. Cook macaroni as directed and drain. heat tomatoes and add sugar, pepper, salt, butter and parsley.

In a two-quart greased casserole dish, alternate layers of ground beef, macaroni, cheese and tomatoes. Top with bacon strips and bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves eight.

This is a recipe my mother found on a TV cooking show called "Homemakers Roundup" out of Baltimore in 1955. She would double this recipe for Sunday family gatherings.

Over the last 30 years it became lost and forgotten. Several months ago I was delighted to have it fall from the pages of one of her old handwritten recipe notebooks. Now I will repeat history.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

1 pound ground beef
8-10 medium potatoes
1 egg
½ cup milk
½ cup butter
1 medium onion
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
1 soup can of water
1 can of corn with juice

Boil potatoes until soft enough to mash. Drain potatoes and return them to the pot. Add egg, milk and butter one at a time while beating on high. Put to the side.

Brown ground beef in medium frying pan, adding one chopped onion. Cook on medium heat until done. Drain hamburger and return to pan. Add one can of corn (juice and all), and two cans cream of mushroom. Fill one soup can with water and add that also. Mix ground beef mixture all together. Heat on low, stirring occasionally until hot.

Pour ground beef mixture into the bottom of a large casserole bowl. Top with mashed potatoes. Place in oven. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden brown.

I live on a farm where we raise beef cattle, so beef is what's for dinner. It is easy to make. My family loves this recipe because it is meat, potatoes, and gravy all in one. It also makes excellent leftovers.

BEEF A LA MODE

4 pound boneless beef roast
2 cups red Burgundy wine
1 large onion, sliced
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon leaf thyme, crumbled

½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons olive oil

⅓ cup flour

Place meat in a marinade bowl. Pour mix of burgundy, onion, garlic, bay, thyme, salt, and pepper over meat. Cover and store in refrigerator overnight, turning to get all sides marinated. Can leave in refrigerator for 24 hours.

To cook, remove meat, pat dry. Brown in hot oil on all sides. Put in 12 cup casserole dish. Add marinade and broth. Bake 325 degrees for 3 hours or until meat is very tender. remove meat to hot plate. Strain broth in blender and mix with flour to form gravy. Blend on high unit smooth. Serve over meat or on the side.

I found this recipe when I was given a bottle of Burgundy wine as a gift. It has become a family favorite. Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

My husband got me away from writing articles, typing Sale Reports, and freezing and canning fruit and vegetables to go along with him to Tioga County. We were just a few miles from the New York state line and five miles from a hard-top road. The roads and housing are certainly very different from Lancaster County.

He bought a camper and put it on ground that our children bought. It is a completely wooded area that they have cut a driveway into. It was two days of hard work.

The three days were similar to camping as there is no electricity, running water, or heat. We used a battery for light and we had sleeping bags. He brought his boat along and so of course, we went fishing each day.

The first evening we stopped at Hills Creek Lake. Here we only caught seaweed. Some children nearby caught a few small fish.

The next morning we drove to Cowanesque Lake. Here, for the first time, we were required to pay to launch our boat. As my husband has been carrying a Golden Age Passport from Yellowstone Park in his wallet for years, we were entitled to a 50 percent discount. Here we only caught a few small fish.

The next day we tried Hammond Lake which is operated by the Baltimore District. I was amazed that they controlled the use of water so far from Maryland. It was quite foggy early in the morning and only a few boats were on the lake with us. No one seemed to be catching fish but at least we had our lunch with us, and so we fed ourselves if we could not feed the fish.

We came home to buckets of tomatoes and big cucumbers. But, I was glad to be back to familiar surroundings.

'Agroecology' Day Looks Deep Into Dirt

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — What's Penn State's agronomy department doing to protect water quality, develop alternative fuels, provide food for earth's 6 billion people, and more?

High school classes and the public can find out at the College of Agricultural Sciences' "AgroEcology Day," Friday, Sept. 29, at Penn State's Agronomy Farm.

"Visitors can see what soil scientists and agronomists are doing to improve our quality of life and talk with the scientists who conduct the research," said Steve Fales, head of agronomy.

High school class tours run from 10 a.m. through noon. Students can eat lunch with the presenters (bring a bag lunch), then have free time to explore. Tours for the public begin at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Each tour lasts about two hours and includes nine presentations:

• "Bringing 'Dead Soil' Back to Life." Learn how scientists removed hazardous pollutants from soils at the Drake Chemical site in Lock Haven, then restored the "dead soil" so plants could thrive.

• "Soil: It's a Jungle in There!" Underground, billions of soil microbes are constantly at work, feeding and protecting plants. Learn about creatures found in backyard soils.

• "Crop Insects: The Good, The Bad and The Ugly." Minimizing the harmful effects of "bad" insects without hurting "good" ones helps the environment and boosts crop production. Learn how farmers can selectively target harmful insects.

• "Living Mulch." "Living mulch" is a low-growing crop grown in the same field as a tall crop. Living mulch helps soils retain water and significantly reduces runoff, soil erosion and pesticide loss from sloped fields. Usually a legume, living mulch also converts nitrogen from the air into fertilizer, helping to feed the crop.

• "Keeping Fertilizer Where It Belongs — Out of Our Water." Nitrates from fertilizers can pollute drinking water and damage fish habitats. Learn how scientists went underground to examine the water under various crop rotations and fertilization and tillage treatments.

• "Native Grasses for Energy, Clean Water and Feed." Native grasses that once sustained vast herds of bison on the prairies may now sustain U.S. agriculture well into the future. Learn how these grasses can be used to make energy, protect water, feed cattle and increase wildlife diversity.

• "White Mold: Scourge of Farm Fields and Gardens." Learn what scientists are doing to reduce white mold, a soybean disease that also can turn vegetable gardens into a mushy mess.

• "Crop Rotations Benefit Everyone." Rotating crops from field to field each year helps dairy farmers keep weeds in check, use less fertilizer, cut down on pests and diseases, and increase soil quality. Hear about the long-term benefits of crop rotations that have been in place since 1969.

• "'Frankenfoods,' Biotechnology and Genetically Modified Organisms." In the future, foods will last longer, taste better, and be more nutritious. Learn how scientists are improving crops through biotechnology without creating "frankenfoods."

Parking and admission for AgroEcology Day are free. For more information, call Steve Fales at (814) 865-6541 or visit the World Wide Web at www.agronomy.psu.edu/AgEcoDay.html.

High school teachers can reserve space for their classes by calling Kate Butler at (814) 865-2119.

The event will be held at Penn State's Agronomy Farm, Gate B, The Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center, Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

Gingerbread With Caramel Sauce

1 cup molasses
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs, beaten separately
½ cup sugar
½ cup butter, melted
2 cups flour (scant)
1 cup boiling water

Mix together molasses, baking soda, and spices. Add sugar, butter, flour, and water; beat well. Add egg yolks and fold in egg whites. Pour into a greased ring mold and bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. Don't worry if batter seems thin, it's supposed to be thin.

Caramel Sauce:

2 egg yolks
1 cup cream
1 pound light brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt

Add egg yolks and cream to sugar. Cook until creamy in double boiler. Add butter. When cool, add vanilla and salt.

Serve gingerbread and spoon sauce over top. Tastes best if gingerbread and sauce are served warm.

ANSWER — Don Love wanted a recipe to make homemade marshmallow creme. Thanks to Mrs. Henry Peight, Somerset, for sending the following recipe.

Marshmallow Creme

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup water
2½ cups light Karo

Combine mixture and cook to 250 degrees, soft ball stage. Cool 5 minutes. While cooling, place ½ cup warm Karo in mixing bowl.

Add 1 cup egg whites. Beat slowly until mixed, then beat hard until light and fluffy.

Slowly add first mixture. When mixed together, add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat hard 3 minutes. Store in jar. Do not cover until cool.

ANSWER — Sheila Roney wanted a sweet potato pie recipe that includes the ingredients of French vanilla pudding, sweetened condensed milk, and cinnamon. Thanks to Kathryn Martin, Quarryville, who sent a recipe. She writes that although it doesn't contain sweetened condensed milk or cinnamon, it is delicious. You could easily add ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Sweet Potato Pie

9-inch unbaked pie shell
1¼ cups sweet potatoes, cooked, mashed
¾ cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup French vanilla pudding mix (instant)
¾ cup evaporated milk
2 large eggs (room temperature)
6 tablespoons butter, softened
1½ tablespoons vanilla

In a large bowl, combine all ingredients. Mix well. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake an additional 40 minutes. Cool completely and garnish with whipped cream.

Here's a different recipe sent by an anonymous reader.

Marshmallows

2 envelopes Knox gelatin
1¼ cups cold water
2 cups granulated sugar
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Powdered sugar

Soak gelatin in half the water for 5 minutes. Put remaining water and sugar in saucepan and boil. Do not stir until it starts to thread. Remove syrup from heat and add soaked gelatin. Let mixture almost cool, then add salt and flavoring and beat until mixture becomes white and thick. Quickly pour mixture into pans that have been dusted with powdered sugar and ground nuts (optional), having mixture thick in pan. Let stand until chilled, turn out of pan on waxed paper. Cut into one-inch cubes and roll in powdered sugar, coconut, or nuts. Makes about 100 marshmallows. Very good and very rich.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted goat cheese recipes, thanks to Melissa Orr, Martinsburg, W.V. for sending recipes she uses and sells at the farm market.

Goat's Milk Cheese

½ gallon whole goat's milk
1 ounce mesophilic goat cheese starter culture liquid rennet

Warm milk to 72 degrees. Stir in one ounce of mesophili goat cheese starter culture. Place 5 tablespoons cool water in measuring cup. Add one drop liquid rennet and stir. Add 1 tablespoon diluted rennet to the milk. Stir thoroughly. Cover and allow milk to set at 72 degrees for 18 hours, until it coagulates.

Molding and Draining: Scoop the curd into individual goat cheese molds, which are made of food grade plastic. When the molds are filled, place in convenient spot to drain.

After two days of draining, the cheese will have sunk down about one-inch in height and will maintain a firm texture. The cheese can be eaten or wrapped with plastic wrap and stored in the refrigerated. If desired, cheese may be lightly salted on its surface, immediately after being removed from the mold.

Herbed Soft Goat Cheese: Follow directions for making cheese. When you scoop the curd into the molds, sprinkle in layers of herbs. Chopped onion, and paprika make a tasty combination of seeds, caraway or fresh ground black pepper can be added separately or in various combinations. Makes almost one pound.

Feta: Feta is heavily salted cheese which has its origins in Greece and was made from sheep's milk or goat's milk. It is often broken up into small pieces and used to garnish fresh salads. Makes one pound.

1 gallon whole milk
2 ounces mesophilic goat cheese starter culture

Warm one gallon of whole goat's milk. Add 2 ounces starter culture and mix thoroughly. Allow to ripen for one hour.

Renneting: Dissolve ¼ rennet tablet in ¼ cup cool water. Stir gently into the milk for several minutes. Cover and allow to set one hour.

Cut the curd into ½-inch cubes. Allow to set undisturbed 10 minutes. Gently stir in the curd for 20 minutes.

Line a colander with cheesecloth. Pour the curds into the colander. Tie the four corners of the cheesecloth into a knot and hang to drain for four hours.

Take down the bag and slice the curd in to one-inch slices. Sprinkle the cubes with 4 tablespoons coarse flake salt. Place the cheese in a covered bowl and allow to age 4-5 days in refrigerator.

If a stronger-flavored cheese is desired, the cheese may be stored in a brine solution under refrigeration for 30 days. The brine is made by adding 2¼ ounces coarse salt to ½ gallon water.

Goat's Milk Cheddar: This is a sharp, peppery goat's milk cheese which is a stirred curd variety of cheddar. It can be consumed after aging for four weeks but improves with flavor if aged up to 12 weeks. Makes 2 pounds.

Ripening: Warm 2 gallons whole milk to 85 degrees. Add 2 ounces goat cheese starter culture and stir thoroughly. Allow to ripen for 30 minutes.

Dissolve ¼ rennet tablet in ¼ cup cool water. Add to the ripened milk and gently stir for several minutes. Allow to set 60 minutes.

Cut the curd into ½ inch cubes. Allow the curd to set undisturbed for 10 minutes.

Raise the temperature of the curd 2 degrees every 5 minutes until the temperature reaches 98 degrees. Gently stir often.

Allow the temperature to remain at 98 degrees for 45 minutes. Continue to stir gently.

Drain the curds into a cheesecloth-lined colander.

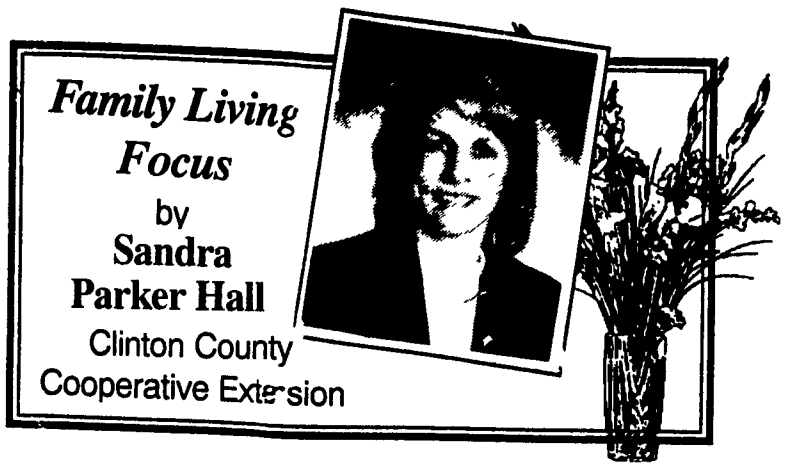
Line a 2-pound cheese mold with cheesecloth. Quickly place the curds into the mold. Cover with a follower and press the cheese at 20 pounds pressure for 15 minutes.

Flip the cheese over in the mold and press at 30 pounds pressure for one hour.

Flip the cheese over and press at 50 pounds pressure for 12 hours.

Remove the cheese from the press. Gently remove cheesecloth. Rub salt on all surfaces of cheese.

Place the cheese to age at 50 degrees. Rub salt on the cheese once a day for the next two days. Turn the cheese daily. When the surface of the cheese is dry, it may be waxed. The cheese should be turned daily. It can be eaten after aging for one month but improves in flavor if aged longer.



Help Your Child Develop Good Study Skills

It's hard to believe that summer has come and gone and that another school year has started. With the school year getting into gear, it's a good time to start establishing good study habits. To help your student study smarter, try some of the following tips:

• Schedule regular study periods. Set aside regularly scheduled study times. The most effective way to learn is to rehearse regularly. Whether it is practicing the piano, playing sports or reviewing academic material, learning happens through the principle of repetition.

• Establish a designated/permanent study area. When a student becomes conditioned to study in the same place, their mind will automatically kick into gear, even when they do not feel like studying.

• A designated area also gives a permanent place to keep notes, textbooks, pens and other supplies. They will not waste 10 minutes each day collecting the material they need if it's already be there.

• Study short and often. The brain takes in information faster and retains it better if it is not overloaded. Short study periods are more effective than two long ones for two reasons: (1) frequent repetition is the key to building memory; and (2) if there is a long time between study periods, a good portion of the material studied may be lost.

• Start study sessions on time. It sounds like a small detail, but it's amazing how quickly those 10 minute delays add up. Use every minute of the time scheduled for study.

• Study the most difficult subjects first. Students are most alert when they first sit down, so encourage them to tackle the tough stuff first. They also feel better getting the worst out of the way, and won't be tempted to spend all of their time on easier or favorite subjects.

• Start assignments as soon as they are given. A little work on an assignment will allow the student to give attention to its quality. The workload will be spread out, avoiding a log jam just before it is due. A calendar to help with scheduling is extremely important.

• Problem solve. For courses that require problem solving, such as math, physics, or chemistry, spend a good portion of the study time working problems. If the student gets stuck on a problem, don't spend too much time on it. Go to the next question and ask for help the next day.

• Study when you are wide awake. Decide what the best time is and try to schedule study time accordingly. We all accomplish more when we are alert.

• Review notes regularly. Taking good notes is the first step, reviewing them regularly is the second. The best way to learning anything is to review the information often (aloud, too).

• Take regular breaks. A general rule of thumb is a 10 minute break for every 60 minutes of studying. Don't study through breaks. They rejuvenate the student for the next hour of studying.

• Reward. When a student completes a goal, give a reward. It doesn't have to be anything elaborate — a snack, a movie, a TV show. The reward system is an incentive to reach goals and a pat on the back for achieving them.

• Keep on top of it. Letting work pile up can leave an overwhelming task. Identify the problem as soon as possible and don't let it become unmanageable.

Helping your student create good study habits is a great step toward success both in to school and future career. Good luck during the coming school year and remember school will be out in ten months.

Mifflin County 4-H Shooters Earn Plaques At Nationals

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

LEWISTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — "My work's all up here," said Aaron Wolfe, tapping his right temple. Improving concentration. Mind control. Couple that with sharp shooting skills and it's easy to understand the success of six Mifflin County 4-H archery and shotgun shooters.

By scoring high at 4-H Achievement Days and the state tournament in Williamsport and at Shawnee Archers near Lewistown, they earned the right to compete at the National 4-H Invitational Shoot in San Antonio, Texas, from July 17-22. There, the archery team won first place gold medals and the shotgun team won third place bronze medals.

Mifflin County's Texas-bound van held archers Aaron Wolfe, Nikki Fisher, and Matt Scheffel and shotgun shooters Dan Scheffel, Chad Setzler, and Curtis McKnight. Once in Texas, they joined the rest of the Pennsylvania shooting team — Somerset County archers Jamie Sechler, Matt Pyle, Nathan Pyle, and Kyle Courtney and shotgun shooters Greg Patton and Jimmy Bender (Lycoming County), Josh Richmond (Sullivan County), and Jeremiah Fearnley (Susquehanna County).

"There's only one person responsible for how they do — themselves," said Mifflin County 4-H Shooting Sports Club leader Sam Setzler. "They either have the drive or not. Concentration is a big part. It's more a mental state of concentration once they have the proper techniques and ability. They all have practiced very hard."

Aaron Wolfe, 17, Lewistown, serves as the 4-H club's president and 1999 Most Improved Shooter, from a beginner's score of 54 to a recent 285. He started shooting with his father. It's one of those things I didn't think I'd like. I never thought it'd turn into as big as it is. There are some areas I need to work on. There's a lot more to accomplish. I was amazed at how many people were represented (in Texas). It was a good trip. I'm looking forward to next year."

Matt Scheffel, 16, Reedsville, is the most consistent archer. (Fluctuating scores result from varying levels of concentration.) He's been a member of the 4-H shooters for six years. For him, the challenge is to keep getting better. "The hardest part is finding enough time to practice."

Fifteen-year-old Nikki Fisher of Lewistown is one of only five girls in archery in the 107-member shooting sports club. She first picked up the bow for 4-H competition this past February. "I learned patience," Nikki said of her experience in Texas. "If I shot bad, I got mad, and my co-shooter said to calm down."

Curtis McKnight, 16, Granville, has been a member of the 4-H club for three years but has been shooting since age five. "I learned to concentrate more," Curtis said of the trip to Texas, "and to get more sleep. Don't get frustrated, and practice more."

Six members of the Mifflin County 4-H Shooting Sports Club qualified for national competition in July and returned with gold and bronze medals. They are, in front, archers Matt Scheffel, Nikki Fisher, and Aaron Wolfe. Archery leader Chris Setzler joins them. The back row includes shotgun shooters Chad Setzler, Dan Scheffel, and Curtis McKnight.

Firefighters help protect people when there is a danger to lives, homes and property, or the environment When they are on duty, firefighters have to be ready to leave immediately when there's a fire or other emergency–no matter what time it is or what the weather's like

In an emergency, there is always a lot going on, so firefighters have many jobs Some firefighters connect the hoses to fire hydrants, operate the water pumps or equipment, or put the ladders in place Other firefighters rescue people and perform first aid, work to clear out smoke in the buildings or save what's in the buildings

Along with training in general emergency procedures, firefighters receive training in emergency medical procedures Many fire departments require that they be certified as emergency medical technicians, too

In addition to fighting house fires, firefighters also work at airports, in chemical plants and in forests Between emergencies, they spend a lot of time at the fire station There, they take part in training, clean and maintain the equipment, and have practice fire drills

Gone Fishin'

It's a great day to be outdoors, so get your gear and head to the nearest fishing spot. Even if the fish aren't biting, you can still have fun digging for worms and enjoying the outdoors.

Fishing gear...
Rod and reels are designed in many shapes and sizes. Pick one that fits you and your fishing habits.

There are a lot of tackle boxes—including wooden, metal and plastic ones. Wooden ones are nice, but they can be heavy and need a lot of care Choose one that is easy to carry and use

Take a good selection of hooks. They come in all shapes and sizes for a variety of fish and fishing. Floats and bobbers let you know you have a fish on your line, and weights help control your bait in the water. Also take a small first aid kit, gloves, bug spray and clippers to cut line.

Have fun...
No matter how many fish you catch, it's fun to experiment with your bait, lures and the way you fish.

But most importantly, to have fun, you need to be safe. Any time you are in a boat or near the water, wear a safety vest, no matter how shallow the water may seem.

And check out your local fishing lure shop. It's a good source for fishing tips and information about the fishing laws in your state.

David Quick Award Honors 4-H'ers

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — Marilyn Quick and her children Cara, Melinda, Jim and Reggie and their families set up the David Quick 4-H Memorial Fund through the Susquehanna County 4-H Program to recognize outstanding 4-H members. A savings bond was awarded to the grand champion senior showman, Heather Pease and the grand champion junior showman, Jessie Sartell at the Susquehanna County 4-H Dairy Roundup. Both Heather and Jessie belong to the North Jackson 4-H Club.

A savings bond will be awarded at the Harford Fair at the colored breeds and a bond at the Holstein youth dairy show for the champion owned and bred animal. A scholarship will also be given at the Susquehanna County 4-H achievement night in October.

Dave Quick became 4-H Club member in Wayne County when he was 10 years old. Quick took the capon and electricity projects before starting to show Jersey cattle. Along with showing dairy animals, Quick participated in dairy judging and received a gold medal for his dairy project work at a National Awards program. While a 4-H member, Quick was selected as having the best Jersey project in Pennsylvania and honored at a State Dairyman's Banquet. As a 4-H member, Quick did radio programs and was on County Council.

In 1964, Quick became a leader in the Rushville 4-H Club, serving both at the club and county leader levels. Quick announced the County 4-H Dairy Roundup last August, an example of his continuing dedication to the 4-H program. Quick was a Susquehanna County 4-H Leader for over 36 years.

The memorial fund will serve to remind 4-H members and leaders in Susquehanna County of the importance of the 4-H program in David Quick's many years of participation and service in the 4-H program.

Hort Show Offers International Gardens Tour

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Visitors can take a gardening tour around the world without leaving Pennsylvania's borders at Penn State's 87th annual Horticulture Show, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 9, and from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 10, here in the Ag Arena.

The show, sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences' student Horticulture Club, focuses on "Landscapes of the World: Uniting People Through Horticulture." Many of the displays feature themed gardens designed to showcase how different nations approach landscape gardening.

The themed gardens will include a Japanese meditative garden, an American vegetable and landscape garden, an Australian garden, a Mexican tropical garden, an English formal garden and an English children's garden, which features a hedge maze.

"The Horticulture Show is really a year-round process," said Mike Wimmer, 22, a senior from Quakertown majoring in landscape contracting and one of four co-managers of the show. "We start planning and calling for donations for next year's show right after the current show closes."

The Horticulture Show also features a farmer's market, where visitors can buy all types of vegetables, fruits, pumpkins, and cider. Those interested in solving a gardening problem can stop by the Ask the Experts table, which is staffed throughout the show.

The Horticulture Show is planned, designed, and constructed by students in the Horticulture Club. More than 60 students participate in the event each year.

Plants used at the exhibit will be on sale during the show. Buyers can place reserve tags on the plants and pick up their purchases after 5 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 10. There also will be more than 700 mums on sale. The plants that are not purchased are used by Penn State's Office of Physical Plant in landscape plantings around the campus.

The show features more than 200 woody ornamental shrubs and trees, and from 50 to 100 different varieties of perennials.

"Proceeds from the show go toward operating the Hort Club," said Dan Stearns, associate professor of landscape contracting. "The club uses the funds to sponsor educational trips, scholarships, social activities, and charitable donations."

Stearns estimates that from 5,000-8,000 people visit the event each year. The event is timed to open on the same weekend as Penn State's second home football game, which features Penn State versus Louisiana Tech. "Attendance to our event varies, depending on the football game," Stearns said. "If the game is one-sided, we get a few more visitors. If it's a close game, we'll get a few less."

Admission to the show is free. The Agricultural Arena is located on Park Avenue across from Beaver Stadium on the University Park campus.

New Soybean Varieties Have Health Benefit

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Now Ohio farmers can raise soybeans that lead to healthy hearts.

Two new soybean varieties that produce soybean oil with about half as much linolenic acid as current varieties have been released by Ohio State University's Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

The soybeans offer health and taste benefits for consumers and a possible price premium for soybean growers, said Steve St. Martin, an OARDC agronomist who helped develop the varieties.

Almost 99 percent of soybeans are crushed, and their oil is extracted for use in margarine, salad oil, cooking oil and other edible oil products.

"Soybean oil contains five different fatty acids, and so does the oil from these new varieties," St. Martin said. "But the acids are in different proportions."

Normal soybeans produce oil with 7 percent to 8 percent linolenic acid. The new varieties, designated HS95-4907 and HS95-4908, produce oil with 3 percent to 4 percent linolenic acid, he said.

That's important because when processors hydrogenate soybean oil to make food products, the linolenic acid in the oil can form trans fatty acids. Some studies have linked trans fatty acids to heart disease.

"By lowering the linolenic acid content of soybean oil, there will be little or no production of trans fatty acids during hydrogenation," he said.

Linolenic acid also is somewhat unstable and picks up oxygen during cooking and storage. This can result in bad odors and poor flavor.

"Food scientists say soybean oil with reduced linolenic acid tastes better than normal soybean oil," St. Martin said. "Food scientists also agree it's good to reduce linolenic acid, but not eliminate it."

Linolenic acid may have some cardiovascular benefits and is an essential fatty acid in the human diet.

Growers who raise the low linolenic acid soybeans could earn an extra 30 cents per bushel. Obtaining a premium price is essential for growing the new varieties to be economical because they do not yield as well as normal soybeans, St. Martin said. In tests, the new cultivars yielded about 48 bushels per acre, compared to about 53 bushels per acre for normal varieties.

Low linolenic acid varieties developed in the next year or two should have higher yields, he said.

'It's going to take an entrepreneur to successfully grow these varieties, because in addition to growing them you have to sell their benefits and find an outlet willing to pay more for them, and store and process them separately from other soybeans," he said. "Ultimately, the success of the new varieties will depend on whether consumers are willing to pay more for what they're getting."

The new cultivars carry the "fan" gene for reduced linolenic acid concentration. The "fan" gene occurs as a natural mutation in some soybean varieties. The new OARDC cultivars were developed through conventional cross breeding of varieties that contain the "fan" gene and varieties that are adapted to grow well in Ohio.

The new varieties are resistant to phytophthora rot, a soybean disease common in Ohio. They also mature early in the fall, making them suitable for northern Ohio, particularly when planting wheat after soybean harvest, St. Martin said.

Development of the low linolenic acid varieties began in 1991 and was supported by an OARDC Interdisciplinary Team Research grant. The Ohio State University research team consisted of St. Martin, plant pathologist Anne Dorrance and food scientist David Min.

Farmers who wish to grow the HS95-4907 and HS95-4908 varieties can get seed through a license from the Agricultural Genetics Research Association or AGRA - an association of small- and medium-size seed growers in Ohio. A portion of the profit from the sale of the seed goes to Ohio State University to support further soybean breeding research, St. Martin said.

For more information about the low linolenic acid soybean varieties, contact St. Martin at (614) 292-8499 or stmartin++ aosu.edu.

Record Drought Continues In North Texas

DALLAS, Texas — For about a year now, Pennsylvania producers have begun to recover from what many consider to be the worst drought in state history.

For Texas growers, recovery from a deepening drought seems far away.

According to Farm Bureau, a history-making drought in north Texas has all the signs of continuing for days and weeks to come. The forecast elsewhere in the state isn't much better.

The record of 58 consecutive days without rain in the region — first set in 1934 — was tied on Sunday, which had been repeated in 1950.

The National Weather Service forecast this week calls for continued temperatures at or exceeding the century mark along with dry skies. Area meteorologists are predicting 65 to 70 days without rain.

A 58-day drought interval first occurred in Texas from May 25 to July 21, 1934 during the Dust Bowl years of the Great Depression.

Statewide, agriculture and livestock producers estimate they've already lost $595 million this year to the parched conditions, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs said.

The SIGNATURE 6000 may be the only rock picker you'll ever need This is the most rugged rock picker on the market Some of the SIGNATURE 6000 features include.

Solid Shaft Grill Tines with Replaceable Grill Tips - This modern grill is easier to maintain, has longer life giving you less down time. The unique grill provides five feet of clean sifting and virtually jamless performance.

Grated Hopper Bottom - We use spring steel straps in the hopper, engineered to bounce back in shape

Hydraulic Drive - The most popular drive on rock pickers is hydraulic which is standard on the 6000. We have incorporated a relief valve to take away the shock when disengaging the drive.

Reel Assembly - The three paddle reel has a large diameter, hard surfaced teeth and heavy duty paddles.

Flotation Tires - The 16.5L x 16.1 flotation tires are standard equipment and are a must to reduce soil compaction

Swing Pole - Easy to maneuver in both working or transport position

Fluffed up... never roughed up

If a storm hits while you're making hay, you'll need the New Holland Model 166 windrow inverter. It helps to dry hay fast, so you can bale or chop sooner. The "166" gently lifts, fluffs and turns windrows without roughing up the hay. So, you move your windrows onto dry ground for faster drying and retain valuable leaves.

For hay that's fluffed up not roughed up, check out the "166" today.

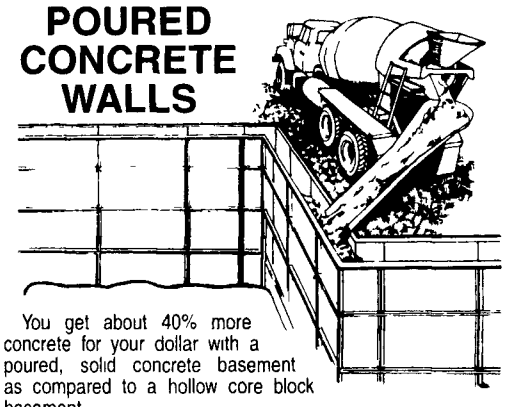
POURED SOLID CONCRETE
STORAGE SYSTEM SPECIALISTS
START WITH THE BEST! POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth wind water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques poured solid concrete basements are competitively priced

Solid Concrete For:
- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls

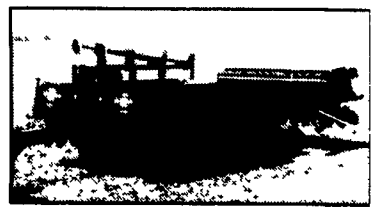
Grain Drill Unfolds To 40-Feet

SALINA, Kan. — The new 3S-4000 Min-Till grain drill from Great Plains is ideal for large-acreage farming.

The three-section drill unfolds to cover 40-feet in the field. Combined with its high capacity seed box, the 3S-4000 maximizes seeding productivity.

The drill features active hydraulic down-pressure on the openers for even penetration across the drill, even in uneven ground. One key feature exclusive to Great Plains is that hydraulic down pressure can be adjusted separately between the wing and center sections to account for compaction from tractor tires.

The wing sections flex 15 degrees down and 20 degrees up, allowing the drill to hug field contours. The proven straight-arm openers have offset double disks and depth-controlling press wheels.



The new 3S-4000 Min-Till grain drill from Great Plains is ideal for large-acreage farming.

The drill folds hydraulically to a transport width of 15-feet.

The 3S-4000 is available in 6-, 7½- or 10-inch row spacing. Seed-level indicators, V-bottom box dividers, a wide walkboard, and safety lights are standard equipment. Markers, point-row clutches and flow monitor are available.

Justice Petitions Supreme Court To Hear USDA's Mushroom Case

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On behalf of the USDA, the Solicitor General of the U.S. Department of Justice petitioned the Supreme Court of the United States on Aug. 18 to hear a case concerning the constitutionality of a mushroom research and promotion program that the USDA oversees.

The Department of Justice filed the petition for a writ of certiorari to hear the case of USDA v. United Foods following the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals' March 23 decision in Cincinnati, Ohio, to deny a rehearing. This resulted from the court's ruling on Nov. 23, 1999, that the portion of the Mushroom Promotion, Research, and Consumer Information Act which requires the payment of assessments for advertising and promotion violates the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The decision of the appeals court reversed a July 1998 judgment by the U.S. District Court in Jackson, Tenn. The decision of this district court followed a June 1997 Supreme Court ruling (Glickman v. Wileman Bros. & Elliott, Inc.) regarding the constitutionality of compelled funding of generic advertising under two federal marketing orders for California tree fruit. In the Wileman case, the Supreme Court ruled that mandatory assessments for generic advertising did not violate the First Amendment because they did not restrain or compel any speech by particular industry members and did not advance any political or ideological views. The Sixth Circuit held that Wileman was not controlling since the tree fruit promotion statute was part of a broader industry regulatory scheme, and the mushroom program was not.

In the petition filed with the U.S. Supreme Court on Aug. 18, the government argues that the appeals court erroneously applied the Wileman case, and that other decisions among various circuit courts in the nation conflict with the Sixth Circuit's position.

Research and promotion programs are intended to expand, maintain, and develop markets for individual agricultural commodities in the U.S. and abroad. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service oversees 14 of these industry self-help programs. They are requested and funded by the industry groups that they serve. These programs provide the means for industry to conduct product and market research, and they empower individuals to work together to address common marketing problems.

USDA Proposes To Discontinue Grading Of Imported Meat Products

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA recently announced that a proposed rule to restrict the USDA grading of imported beef, lamb, veal, and calf products will be issued later this summer.

Kathleen A.Merrigan, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said, "The proposed rule will assure U.S. consumers that the USDA grade shield only appears on meat products from livestock processed in the United States."

In 1999, the National Cattleman's Beef Association and the American Sheep Industry Association requested that USDA end the official grading of imported meat products. USDA solicited comments on the issue in an Advanced Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPR) published earlier this year.

One hundred and four people and producer groups responded to the ANPR, with the majority of commentors requesting that USDA restrict its meat grading services to exclude imported meat products. They expressed the belief that applying the USDA grade shield to imported meat products contributes to consumer confusion regarding the origin of those products.

Deere Breaks Ground For New Division Headquarters

CARY, N.C. — In accordance with plans for expansion in the North Carolina's Triangle area, the John Deere Worldwide Commercial and Consumer Equipment Division broke ground on its new headquarters in Cary, N.C.

The 156,000-square-foot, four-story building is expected to be the first of several buildings to be built on a 65-acre campus near the corner of Weston Parkway and Evans Road.

Director of Industrial Recruitment for the North Carolina Department of Commerce Doug Byrd, Cary Mayor Glen Lang and other local dignitaries joined John Jenkins, president of the John Deere Worldwide Commercial and Consumer Equipment Division, in the ceremony.

"Today's groundbreaking marks another milestone in the growth of the Worldwide Commercial and Consumer Equipment Division and a continued commitment to our presence in North Carolina," said Jenkins. "Our division has aggressive growth goals over the next decade. We're excited to tackle these initiatives here in the Triangle area, where we've had success as an organization since 1988."

The expansion could include an additional 900 employees over the next decade, bringing total employment from more than 300 people to almost 1,300. The expansion will help the Division meet the goal of being a $6 billion Division for Deere and Co. by 2006.

According to Gary Davis, Director of Business Process Excellence, the campus development is expected to include multiple phases of office building construction and the expansion of business functions, such as marketing and sales, supply management, information systems, finance, and business process excellence.

Rotary Combine Offers New Level Of Harvesting Performance

ATLANTA, Ga. — The new Massey Ferguson® MF8780 XP rotary combine uses revolutionary new Cummins® Quantum System power and a patented rotary threshing system, proven over two decades of field use, for faster, cleaner harvesting and on-the-go unloading without slowing down.

"The combination of a new electronically controlled 285 hp Cummins Quantum System engine working in tandem with Massey Ferguson's patented, field-proven rotary threshing system is producing unprecedented harvesting performance — even in highly adverse crop conditions," said Verlin Tinder, Massey Ferguson general marketing manager.

"The MF 8780 XP excels in operations that require large harvest capacity, superior grain quality, and low grain loss," said Tinder. "With its increased power, higher torque, constant speed rotor control, and faster harvesting in all crops, this is the ideal machine for both individual farms and large custom harvester."

The MF 8780 XP is powered by a new Cummins 285 hp

The Massey Ferguson MF 8780 XP Rotary Combine features a new electronically controlled 285 hp Cummins Quantum engine, and a patented rotary threshing system, proven in more than two decades of field use for faster, cleaner harvesting.

Quantum System engine with full-authority electronic controls that ensure higher torque, increased fuel economy, quieter operation, and longer maintenance intervals. The 24-valve cylinder head increases power and response across the entire power band.

Rated at 285 hp at 2200 rpm, a Power Bulge to 305 hp at 2000 rpm maintains combine performance in tough harvesting conditions and when unloading on-the-go.

The MF 8780 XP features load-sensing hydraulics, hydrostatic ground drive, four speed, constant-mesh transmission, and heavy-duty final drives. The exclusive, infinitely variable, hydrostatic rotor drive replaces complicated belt and gear box drives found on competitive combines, provides full-powered rotor reverse, and accurately monitors rotor load, making both experienced and inexperienced operators highly productive.

The large-capacity, 230-bushel grain tank features a fast filling clean grain auger, and can be unloaded in approximately two minutes on-the-go with electro-hydraulic control of turret unloader position and engagement.

A unique rotor feed system with an exclusive inlet beater, a wide 44-inch feeder elevator, and large 2,205-square inch concave threshing area are matched with a direct discharge rotor, and large chaffer and sieve to provide unequaled cleaning at maximum capacity levels. The exclusive direct crop discharge eliminates the need for a power-consuming beater, and the field-proven, long 140-inch rotor provides more complete threshing and separating.

MidAtlantic Farm Credit Granted Preferred Lender Status

WESTMINSTER, Md. — William Walmsley, USDA director for Maryland and Delaware, announced that MidAtlantic Farm Credit has been granted "preferred lender" status for the Farm Service Agency's (FSA) guaranteed farm loan programs.

As a preferred lender, Farm Credit will be able to process guaranteed loans faster for farmers in Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

FSA guaranteed loans allow lenders to serve farms that cannot be served on a conventional basis. Under the Preferred Lender Program (PLP), lenders process loans and request guarantees with reduced paperwork and supervision requirements.

After FSA reviews and approves a lender's credit management system, the lender can originate and service guaranteed loans the same way they do other loans in their portfolio.

Walmsley congratulated J. Robert Frazee, MidAtlantic Farm Credit's CEO, for the lender's performance in making and servicing FSA farm ownership and operating loans. "By granting preferred lender status to MidAtlantic Farm Credit, we're expressing our confidence in their credit management system."

"Preferred lender" is the top status that a lender can hold in the FSA guaranteed loan program. Preferred lenders submit only a one-page application and a narrative describing the loan's credit factors. Approval is automatic if FSA does not respond within 14 days of receiving a completed application.

To qualify for the PLP designation, a lender must have made at least 20 USDA guaranteed loans in the past five years and have a low historical loss rate. In addition, the lender must have a proven record of submitting sound loan proposals and a demonstrated ability to service guaranteed loans.

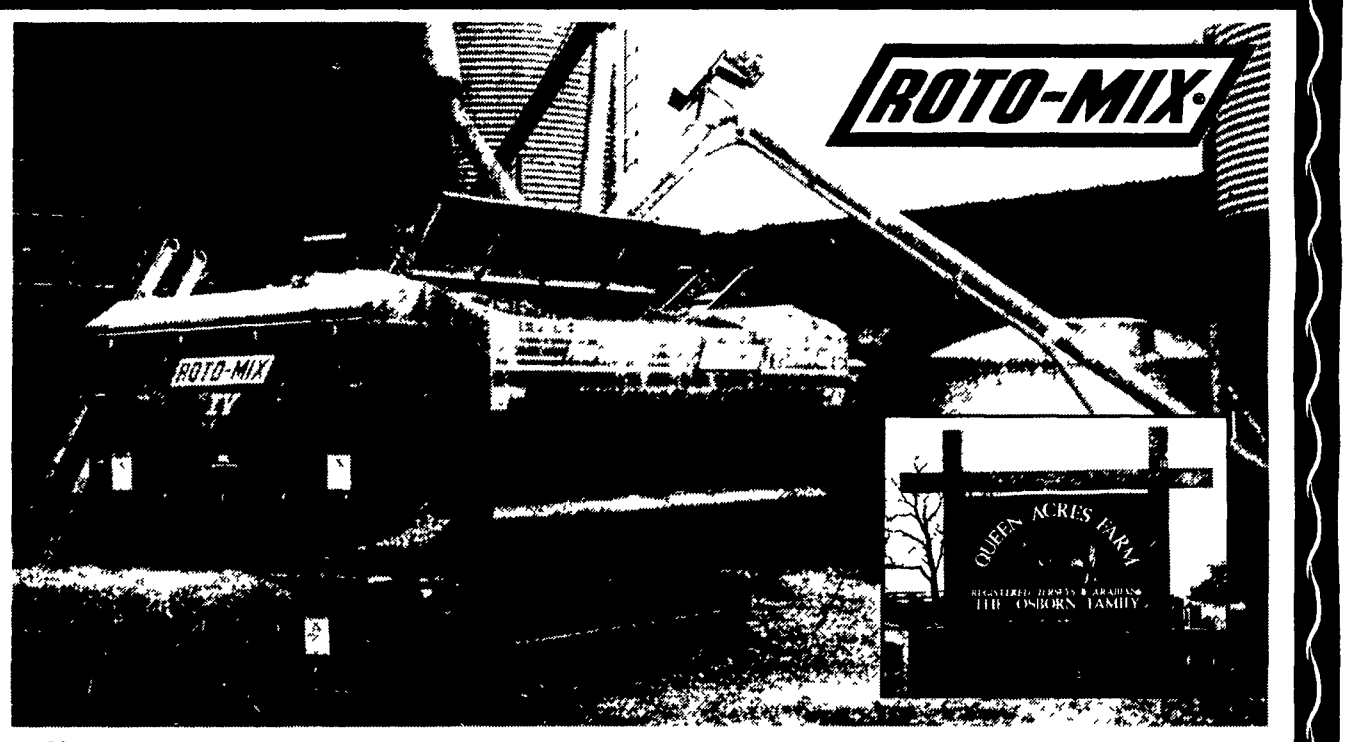
"Used Harvestores® is our Business Since 1975"



"No auger mixer can process and mix dry long hay like a Roto-Mix mixer can."

–Jim Osborn, Queen Acres Farm, Keymar, MD

"When I do the feeding I like to load the hay into the mixer early in the mix. That allows the hay to be processed to a shorter fiber length. When Jim does the feeding he loads the hay in last, he likes to see a longer fiber. Either way the cows eat it. We clean very little out of the feed bunk."

- J.W. Wotthlie, Farm Manager

Queen Acres Farms is the home of the 7th ranked Jersey herd in the nation, milking 110 cows.

- Using Roto-Mix Model 354 stationary mixer, powered by two 10 hp single phase electric motors. Purchased from Lapp's Barn Equipment in 1997 to replace a 1 yr. old, 4 auger mixer.
- Mixing TMR, 46 lbs. per cow per day, including 5 to 6 lbs. of dry baled hay.
- High herd average for milk production - 19,600 lb, with high protein test and high butterfat test - 5.1%

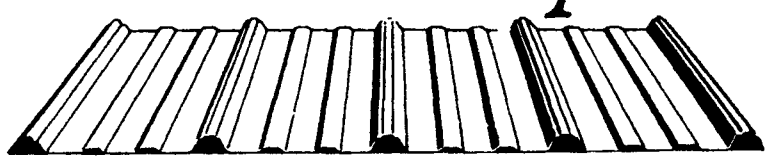
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

LOG CABIN HORSE FARM Plus Catalog

Offering a new approach to horse keeping!!!

Are you tired of having your horses stand in wet stalls? Would you like to dry them out and save money on bedding at the same time? Are you tired of the mud holes your horses make outside the barn door or off the end of the concrete? Would you like a solid surface around your outside hay feeder that allows moisture to soak through to the ground below?

If this sounds good, give me a call and I will explain how it works and how much it costs
